Antioch mayor, police chief get days in court

by MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

The Village of Antioch's quandary over the chain of command has reached the Lake County Circuit Court. Two lawsuits involving the delineation of power to the mayor and police chief with regard to police matters will be heard by a judge Wednesday, Feb. 20.

Integral to each suit is an order made by Mayor Robert Wilton, directing Police Chief Chuck Miller to rescind disciplinary action against two police officers and one dispatcher.

A lawsuit filed Feb. 6 on behalf of Miller asserts that Wilton's order is in violation of an Aug. 29, 1990 court order restricting the mayor's role in police matters. The complaint asks that Wilton be held in contempt for the violation.

According to Miller's attorney Chuck Smith, the court order, which resulted from an attempt by the mayor to oust the police chief, states that "the mayor will be permanently enjoined from preventing the chief of police from executing his lawful duties as chief of police of the Village of Antioch until its removal or vacation of office."

"All we're really asking is that Wilton be permanently ordered to stop interfering in Miller's job as police chief," said Miller's attorney Chuck Smith, to whom Miller referred comment.

Wilton and his attorney Thomas McGuire, have countered with a lawsuit filed Feb. 8, seeking to uphold the mayor's order and hold the police chief accountable for disobeying it. Cited in the matter are state statutes governing mayoral powers.

"I think we need to get straightened out who has what authority," said Wilton.

The question of authority has been the subject of lengthy, ongoing discussions by the board of trustees. The latest action to be taken was the approval of an ordinance revision under which action taken by the police chief will be overseen by the village administrator, subsequent to the approval of the chief governing body (mayor and trustees). Prior to the action, the mayor alone, was empowered to oversee the actions of the village administrator.

"What it boils down to is who has the authority to run the village. Is it the mayor or the four trustees who are attempting to change the political system," said Wilton referring to trustees Donald Amundsen, Mabel Lou Weber, Ronald Cunningham and Marilyn Shineflug who approved the revision.

School officials converge for space crisis debate

by MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

The school space crisis brought together officials from Antioch Community High School and all its feeder schools for a discussion on the future of the districts, Feb. 7. The focal point of the forum was passage of the $29.9 bonding referendum for construction of a new high school and provisions for the existing high school building.

"There is a need for additional space and I think all of you are seeing the same kinds of situations in your schools," said ACHS Supt. Gary Allen.

Represented at the meeting were members of school boards from Antioch Dist. 34, Lake Villa Dist. 41 and Millburn Dist. 24.

Neighborhood contingents are being determined with "block captains" being deployed to help garner 'yes' votes for the April 2 referendum.

"We think that if we can break the district down into that kind of system, we can get the yes votes," said Allen.

In advance of an affirmative outcome, the officials are attempting to map each district's future space needs pursuant to availability of rental space at the present Antioch location.

A preliminary plan of the proposed high school was introduced, with specific details reliant upon economic conditions and availability and nature of bids, subsequent, of course, to the approval in the referendum.

"Many of the options available to us probably will not be available until the fall," said ACHS Business Manager Ken Wierschem.

Of greatest concern to the public and parochial schools was rental of current high school space to lessen their shortage of space. A committee is being organized to further probe the issue.

Wierschem provided a detailed accounting of the operating expenses at the high school, but refrained from providing a serious estimate of rental rates.

"There's no profit motives here," he said.

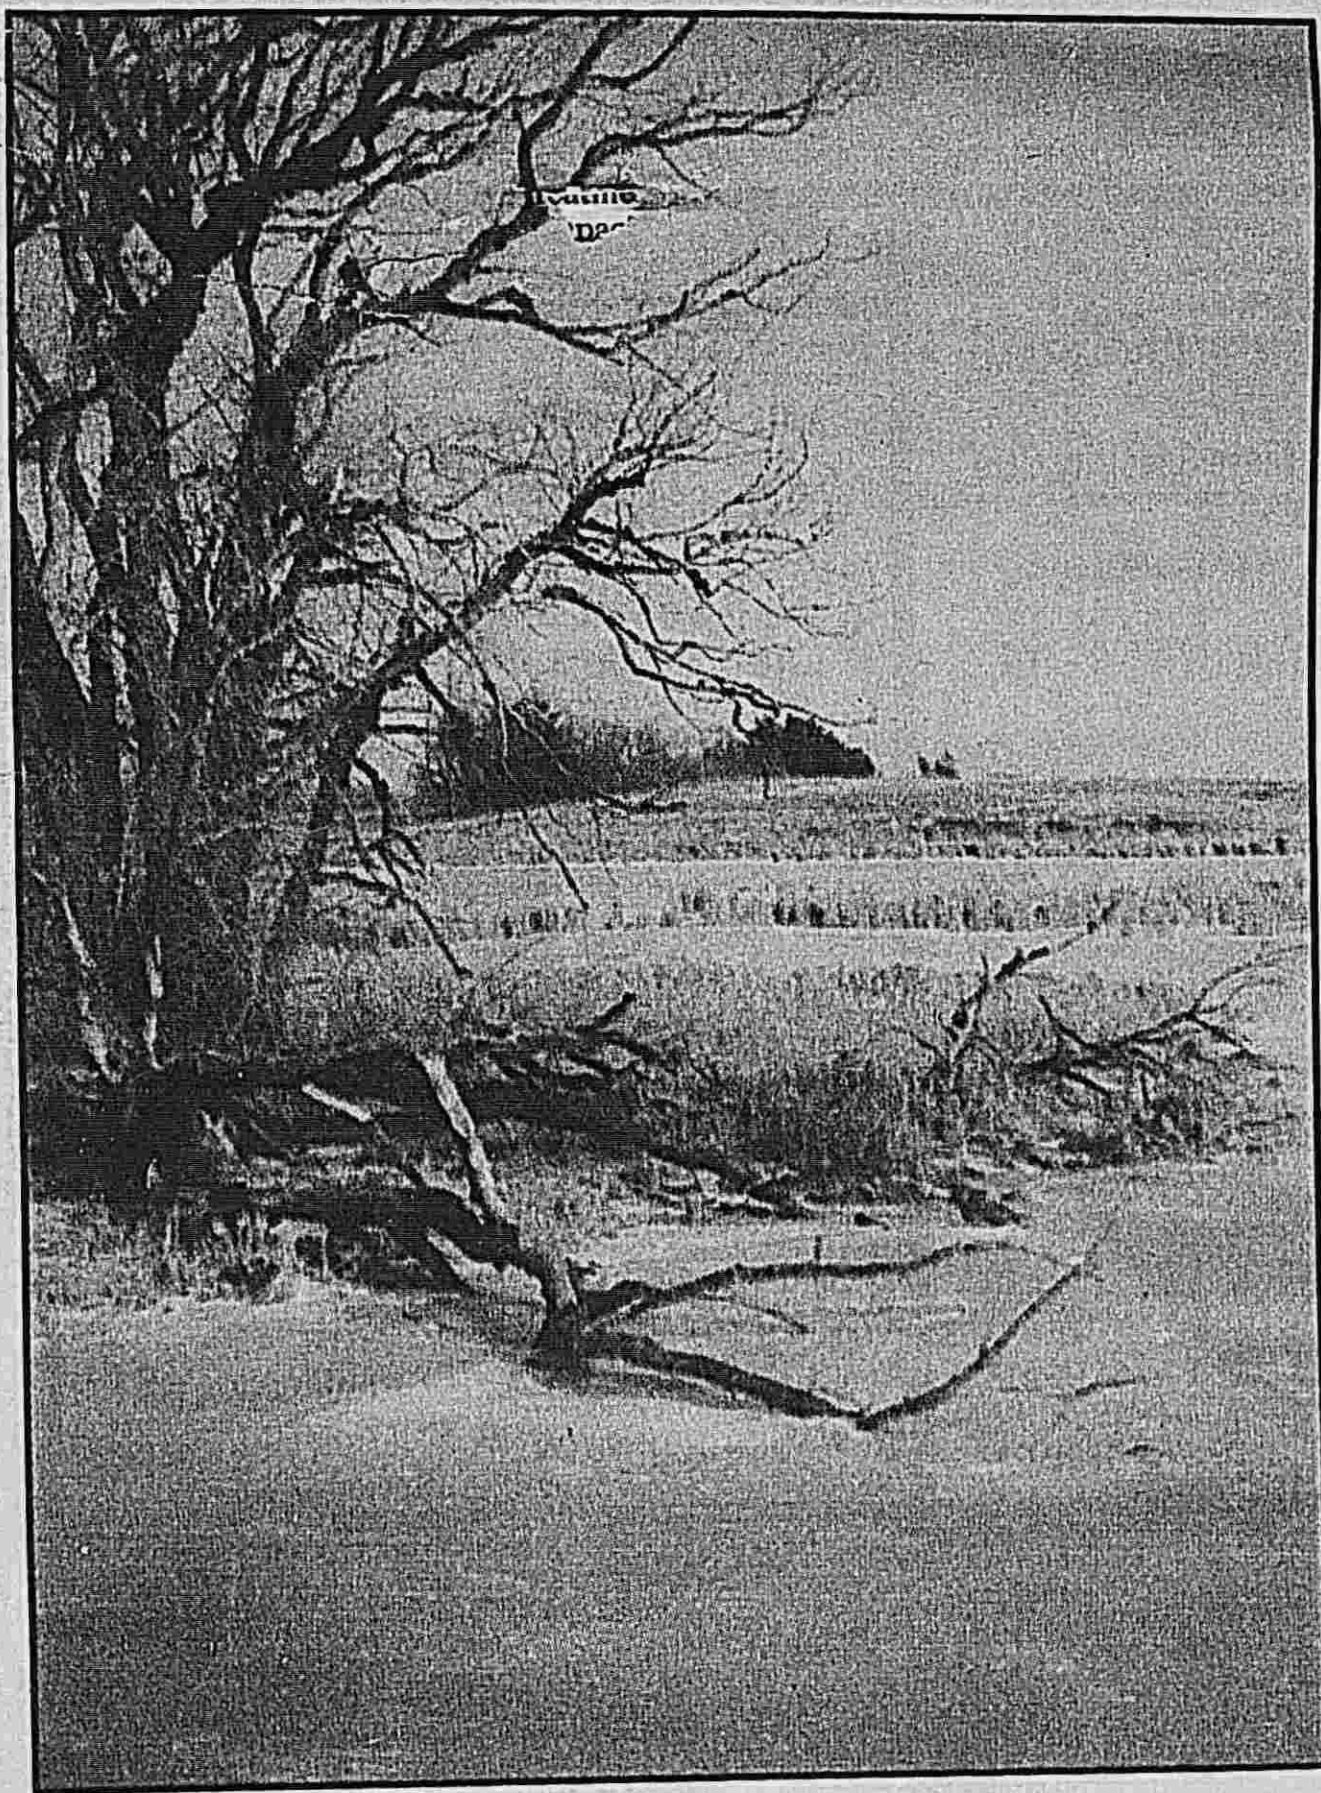

Variables influencing rental costs include provision of faculty and maintenance staff, insurance, equipment and supplies. Wierschem indicated that, in all likelihood, furniture and shop equipment would be moved to the new building.

In addition to a long-range (10-20 year) lease-type agreement, several feeder district officials called for a clause ensuring the longevity of such a pact and delineation of the use of facilities.

By constructing within the constraints of the $29.9 million in bonds, Wierschem conceded that Dist. 117 may fall short of constructing a fully equipped school facility. Again, the full scope of the development relies on the economic climate and enrollment.

"We hope that the $29.9 million will get us a whole high school," he said.

However, in the event of a shortfall, the possibility exists that the high school district would be forced to retain usage of certain facilities. The "worst case scenario" would involve sharing of athletic (Continued on Page 8)

Winter's not gone yet

Despite early unseasonably warm weather that melted most of 1991's snow, Jack Frost doesn't seem to be ready to fold his icy tent, as weather colder than normal appears on the Lake County scene just in time to keep the river and lake ice frozen and send the groundhog back into his hole. — Photo by Lisa Benitez

District borrows

WAUCONDA — Wauconda School District 118 is borrowing $800,000 in "working cash" bonds due to a shortfall in their cash flow. According to a written statement from H. Darrell Dick, district superintendent, the system would actually run out of money to pay bills as early as March unless the money is borrowed. "In March, the board will be out of cash to pay its bills," Dick said. The cash shortfall is attributed to rising costs in operations. Recently, the teachers received a 9% increase in salary after a protracted strike.

Petitions upheld

ISLAND LAKE — An Island Lake electoral board has turned back an objection lodged against the nominating petitions of two incumbent trustees seeking re-election this spring. The board, which was made up of Mayor Charles Amrich, senior trustee John Ruter and Village Clerk Pat Nebgen, decided to allow the names of Georgine Cooper and Steve Stiller on the April 2 ballot. The objection had been filed by Donna Dombrowski, radio dispatcher for the Island Lake Police Department. Dombrowski will now plead her case before a circuit court.

Lawsuits filed

ANTIOCH—The Village of Antioch's quandary over the chain of command has reached the Lake County Circuit Court. Two lawsuits involving the delineation of power to the mayor and police chief with regard to police matters will be heard by a judge at press time. Integral to each suit is an order made by Mayor Robert Wilton, directing Police Chief Chuck Miller to rescind disciplinary action against two police officers and one dispatcher.

Recycling success

LINDENHURST—Residents are pitching in in a big way to help the environment. Their overwhelming response and overflowing recycling bins are setting a shining example for municipal recycling programs to follow. On a monthly basis, 88 percent of Lindenhurst households deposited their recyclables with the village's curb-side plan, according to Bob Fiene, Jensen Disposal, contractor of the recycling service.

Joins agency

LAKE VILLA—The village is set to join a slew of Lake County municipalities in the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO). According to Lake Villa Mayor Joyce Frayer, the village should be installed in the agency prior to its first meeting, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 21. The village was required to pay a $5,000 entry fee which was based upon population.

Plan senior center

LIBERTYVILLE—Recreation departments of Libertyville, Vernon Hills and Mundelein are being polled on their opinion of a planned multi-purpose building that will serve as a senior center and public facility at the southeast corner of Butterfield and Golf Rds. The township board has tentatively agreed for use of up to 20 acres of open space land at this desirable intersection and is considering underwriting the estimated $1.3 million cost.

Charges denied

INGLESIDE—The president of the Gavin Education Assn. disavowed charges that union members are making abusive calls to school board members in connection with eight-month-old negotiations for a new contract. President Janie Keane said she was aware of the charges. "We wear badges, but we don't make phone calls to board members and we don't discuss contract problems with students," Keane declared.

Officer arrested

ROUND LAKE—Round Lake Police have arrested Richard A. Bormann, of Hainesville for selling a firearm to a juvenile. Police arrested Bormann after he sold a loaded .22 caliber handgun to a Round Lake High School student for $100. The handgun was one of two confiscated at the school by police last week. Bormann sold the student the handgun after the two met in an auto repair shop in Hainesville, the Lake County Drive Train Service, frequented by Bormann, who is an ex-Hainesville police officer and a current Lake County Sheriffs Police officer serving with the Marine Patrol. The other handgun confiscated by Round Lake Police from the high school, a .38 caliber weapon, was stolen by one of the students from the home of Glen Jewel.

Regional sewer plant
adequate to year 2000

Adequate central sewage treatment facilities will be available for a large area of northwest Lake County well beyond the year 2000.

That was indicated by Rick Leber, superintendent of the regional treatment works at Fox Lake, in describing capacity being provided for the North West Regional Sanitary System.

The regional plant, now being expanded in a $23.5 million program, serves the Fox Lake-Ingleside area, Lakes Region Sanitary District serving unincorporated Grant Township, the entire Round Lake area, Lake Villa and part of the Antioch area.

It is Lake County's second largest sanitary system geographically. Currently 44,000 persons are being served.

In a two-year rebuilding program that will conclude in October, plant capacity will be enlarged to nine million gallons per day from a six MPG rating. Current flow is 5.2 MPG.

Leber said the completed plant will be able to serve a population of 66,000.

The new plant can easily be expanded to 12 MPG, Leber stated, in addressing members of the Fox Lake Economic Development Commission.

"When that point is reached, we'll have to buy more land or construct another regional plant," Leber stated.

Fox Lake treats sewage for the vast area under a system of inter-governmental agreements. The system is managed by the Lake County Public Works Dept.

The Lake Villa area will be brought on line next year, according to Leber, who described the treatment network as be bordered by Grass Lake Rd. on the north, Hainesville Rd. on the east and south Grant Township on the south.

Leber expressed confidence that the system is "on top of growth" up to 12 MPG.

About $2.45 million has been designated for equipment to control odors which have been a serious problem for five years for residents living near the plant located in the center of Fox Lake at Rollins and Sayton Rds. Leber said a "good portion" of the new plant will be covered.

Kelly Burbridge is the Antioch Community High School Student of the Month for January. Burbridge is congratulated by Bill Battistone of the Bank of Waukegan, Antioch, who presents a check in her name to the Parent Teacher Scholarship Fund.

Burbridge named January's student

Kelly Burbridge has been named the Antioch Community High School Student of the Month for January. She earned the honor after winning the Antioch "Voice of America" contest and placing third in the district contest. The reigning Miss Antioch and second runner up to Miss Lake County, she has been a cheerleader for four years, and is Student Council and Senior Class Secretary. She has been a dancer for 15 years and is employed by the Kim Kalla Dance Studio. She is a member of the competitive dance troop "Dance Magic."

She plans to attend Indiana University and major in public relations and communications.

Student of the Month is sponsored by the Bank of Waukegan, Antioch, who contributes $100 per month to the Parent/Teacher Scholarship Fund on behalf of the student. The selection is made by the ACHS administrative staff and is based on scholarship, leadership, character and service to the school or community. Burbridge was nominated by Charon Neul of the English/Speech Department.

New chamber president lauds cooperative spirit

Roger Sorensen was installed as Antioch Chamber of Commerce President, Feb. 8, at the Landmark Restaurant. In his acceptance speech, he acclaimed the spirit of cooperation in the village and his desire to cultivate it into promising enterprises for the community.

"This town goes on volunteerism," he said, "this town goes because we cooperate with each other to make this a community."

A native of Antioch, Sorensen is a graduate of Antioch Grade School and Antioch Community High School. For the past five years he has owned Sorensen Insurance, a company founded by his father, Les.

In his third year as a member of the chamber, Sorensen has seen a tremendous response by volunteers promoting the village.

"Almost everyone in Antioch is volunteering to make this community better," he said, "if there's an event in town, it's normally sponsored by a volunteer organization," he said.

Annual events include the rv/boat show in June, the arts and crafts fair in July, golf outing for members and Santa's Christmas Castle. This year, more than 2,800 children paid a visit to Santa's home away from home.

Additionally, the retail committee works to organize Harvest Days and Maxwell Street Days.

The chamber also works on ongoing campaigns to improve the village, such as securing funds for the "welcome to Antioch signs" and installation of drinking fountains.

Joining Sorensen on the chamber board of directors are First Vice President Bob Kuzlik, new member Reed Ano, new member Florence Heiselmann, Treasurer Russ Dusak, and new member Frank DiMarco.

Meeting focuses on rebirth of Antioch's downtown

A centralized management plan and business association are among the issues to be discussed at a breakfast meeting on the future of downtown Antioch.

"This is good news, real community action, real groundswell action," said Peg Ransom, public service consultant for the village.

The meeting will be held Wednesday, Feb. 27 at Hogan's at the Antioch Golf Club, 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. A complete breakfast buffet will be served at a cost of $5.95 per person.

Consultant Bert Stitt of Bert Stitt and Associates, Madison, Wis., will be the featured speaker. Stitt has worked on revitalization projects throughout Wisconsin and is currently involved in a plan in Batavia, Ill.

"The downtown really defines the town,"

said Ransom, "there is a concern that there are too many empty storefronts downtown."

To upgrade the definition of the downtown area, Ransom suggests an alliance of concerned community members. One example is a business association, a group business operator who enter into a voluntary, yet binding contract to work to improve the district. The dues-paying associates would then be responsible for organizing events, finding new tenants and creation and maintenance of a creative mixture of clients.

"It's people to people pulling together for the sake of downtown, for the sake of Antioch," she added.

Reservations for the breakfast may be made by calling, 395-6342. Deadline for reservations is Monday, Feb. 25.

Old high school rental no option for Dist. 41

Lake Villa Dist. 41 officials want their students kept in the district and are not interested in the prospect of renting space at the old Antioch Community High School, should a new high school be built.

A meeting of the Dist. 41 building committee will be held Monday, Feb. 18 at Pleviak School to discuss alternatives.

Without the availability of land for a new facility, officials are looking closely at the possibility of a 12-room addition to Pleviak School. The addition would permit the Pleviak facility to continue to accommodate the sixth grade or to include the third grade from B.J. Hooper School.

A bonding referendum, April 2, will determine the fate of the new Antioch High School facility at Polley Field. If passed, the old building would be available on an, as yet to be determined, rental basis. Although opposed to the idea of busing students outside of the district, officials are continuing negotiations with the high school.

In other business, staff attendance reports indicate that the certified staff at district schools has achieved 97 percent attendance.

Judy Bach, instructor in the gifted and talented program at Intermediate School was presented a plaque for her work with the "Ride for Wildlife" bike-a-thon. National Geographic Magazine featured Bach's bike-a-thon in a recent issue.

ACHS plans exciting post-prom evening

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(708)395-5380

Night To Remember

The 1991 Antioch Community High School prom will be held May 3. After the prom itself, the A.L.L. Parent Networking Group is sponsoring an all-night fun evening of post-prom activities with the cooperation of the junior class.

Participants in this evening will be bussed to and from the Lake Geneva Health Club from 12:30 a.m. to about 6 a.m. The health club is located on the grounds of the Americana Resort. The students and chaperones will be able to participate in walleyball, tennis, basketball, racquet ball, swimming, nautilus weight room, whirlpool, sauna, etc. Video movies will also be available and plans are underway to secure a DeeJay for continued dancing.

The junior class and A.L.L. Parent Network are seeking adult female and male chaperones to help supervise the activities as well as join in the fun. If you would like to be a chaperone, contact Cyndy Vandrush at (708)395-2215. Also the committees are in the process of planning raffles to be conducted throughout the evening. To donate a raffle item, contact Vicki Smith at (708)356-9591. There will also be food and non-alcoholic beverages provided throughout the evening. The purpose of post-prom activities is to offer a supervised extended evening of fun that the kids will remember forever. To find out further information call the Parent Networking, JoAnne O'Connell at (708)395-7269.

Wintertime Fun

Once again the Grass Lake School junior high classes participated in a successful fun ski trip to Alpine Ski Resort in East Troy, Wis. As the students, and also some of the adult chaperones enjoyed the slopes and fresh air, the rest of us enjoyed the warmth, good food, pretty scenery, and friendly conversation in the lodge. GLS staff members present were Ted Gavlin (Mr. 1001 excuses why not to ski), Arlene Graffrig (a newcomer to Antioch and already a reader of this column), Carolyn Adams (it looks like fun to others), Barb Coia (a good eye for a bargain), Steve Bartlett (likes to dance as well as ski), Vickie Glessner (it's too cold out there for me), Sandra Boesdorfer (the giant hill skier), Carol Perry (takes to the slopes and never quits), Robin Edelman (the skiing bus driver), and Phyllis "Bev" Wagner (the relax in the lodge bus driver).

Nicole Santiemmo and fifth grader, Adam Hiller, enjoyed doing the slopes with Sandy Boesdorfer. Adam's teacher. However, it appeared that Sandy had more stamina than Niki or Adam as she was definitely intent on skiing the "biggest" slope available. Sandy definitely enjoys skiing, except the getting up part, after the falling down part.

Others present at the outing were 70 energetic junior high students and Sue Misch, Corey Misch, Kurt Wagner, Jason Pauhlas, Donna (Warnke) Davis, Marie Brausam, Renate Wlezien, Mike (I lost my gloves) Plattner, Julie Groh, Sarah (maybe some day I'll try) Groh, Dennis Beattie, Larry Edelman, Sr., Jenny Santiemmo, Tony (don't put it in the column) Santiemmo, Pat Santiemmo, Cathy Harris, Jim Harris, Arlene Harris, Sally Hiller, Carrie Hiller, Mary Stahl, Timmy Stahl, Linda Boerman, Donna Schmehl, and last but not least "The Gossip Columnist," right, Arlene Graffrig. This exciting yearly ski trip is coordinated by Ted Gavlin, the junior high science teacher, and everyone would like to thank him for the time and energy he puts forth in making it so enjoyable.

witness such an exciting game full of team spirit and excellent show of good sportsmanship on the part of both teams.

Jazz Journey VI

Don't miss this one! I went to Jazz Journey V last year and discovered a totally fantastic event. The performance was wonderful and the talent in each and every member of the jazz group

Hometown Goodies

Exciting Game

I would like to brag about my son, Jim, his good friend, and an entire Zion Park Dist. hockey team. On Jan. 26, the Zion Green Team and the Zion Red Team met in a playoff game to determine the second place position and also advancement to the first place play off game. My son, Jim Schmehl, played an important role helping the Greens advance to the next level of the playoffs. He scored the first three goals of the game, giving him a "Hat Trick" and his team gained a slight lead. The entire team played well and the goalie, Chris Groh, was constantly stopping the other team from scoring. However, even though the Green's took the match, it was a hard fought victory. The game tied-up three times at 3-3, 4-4, and 5-5. It eventually ended with a 6-5 victory for the Greens.

Jim also scored a goal in the last period and Chris played exceptionally well on a very special day, his 13th birthday. After the game, everyone sang happy birthday to the "Goalie Chris."

Good going guys and I was glad I was on hand to and choir was out of this world. They year Jazz Journey VI will be held in the ACHS auditorium on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 22 and 23 at 7:30 p.m. The adult ticket prices are $3 and student tickets, $2, pre-school children are free.

Last year I wen with a small group of friends. How about it ladies, are we going to go and enjoy ourselves again? Let me know!

More Babies

Myrtle and Rudy Kubica are very excited over the Feb. 1 birth of their 11th and 12th grandchildren. Their son, Ricky, and daughter-in-law, Sandy gave birth to twins. The baby girl weighed in at seven pounds, 10 ounces, and the baby boy weighed in at nine pounds, two ounces.

Can you imagine carrying around almost 17 pounds of baby. Little Jennifer Ann, and James Edward were born at St. Catherine Hospital in Kenosha. Waiting anxiously at home to help mom and pop care for the babies are big sisters, Erin, 3 and Stacy, almost 2.

Ricky and Sandy own and operate the Antioch Schwinn Cyclery. Congratulations to all the members of the Kubica family on this special birth.

Bob and Elaine Lasky of Antioch are very happy over the birth of their first grandchild. Their daughter, Melinda, and son-in-law Larry Sweeney, are the proud parents of a seven pound, two ounce, baby boy. Little Kyle Robert (after granpa) was born at Good Samaritan Hospital on Jan. 30. Elaine visited the baby and parents in the hospital and even got to hold little Kyle at that time. Great grandma and grandpa, Daisy and Fred Hanssen, are also very excited over Kyle's birth as in Auntie Carol Laskey, Melinda's sister.

Last, but not least, a baby son was born to Mary and Steve Turner in Antioch. Little Matthew Steven was born at Lake Forest Hospital on Feb. 5. He weighed in at six pounds, one ounce. Welcoming him home was big brother, Andy and big (little) sister, Kaite, who is only three years old. Andy is very excited to have a baby brother and is planning to teach him "everything" as soon as baby Matthew can get around on his own power.

Congratulations to the Turner family on this special occasion.

Thank You

Once again, the yearbook committee would like to thank all of the area businesses who helped support our 1991 GLS yearbook through their patron ad donations. The committee would also like to thank and welcome aboard two of the most recent patrons to the yearbook. The Short Cut Beauty Salon, owned and operated by Sally Hiller and P.I.P Printing of Antioch, owned and operated by Debbie and Mark Friel. The yearbooks are on sale at the present time and anyone wishing to order a copy of the book may contact the school or any member of the committee to place your order.

Ambitious Young Man

Congratulations are in order for Joe Rhode, a student at Harper College in Palatine. Joe recently earned the North Central Community College All Academic Team Award for the 1990 fall semester. Criteria for this award is the maintaining of a "B" average, while earning a varsity letter in a sport. Joe earned his letter while playing football for the Harper Hawks. Incidentally, the Hawks were undefeated in their conference and went on to compete in the Royal Crown Cola Bowl held at the Univ. of Northern Iowa. Joe's parents, Marian and John Rhode of Antioch, would like to congratulate Joe on his scholastic and sports achievement. I would personally like to congratulate Joe on a job well done, as I have watched him mature through his grade school and high school years into a fine young man. Congratulations, Joe, keep it up.

Honor Students

Criteria to achieve the Straight "A" honor roll status at the AUGS is no grade in any subject less than an "A"—a perfect 4.0 average. The students achieving this high honor for the second nine weeks of the school year are: Sixth grade, Erica Bonovitz, Shana Brown, Julie Hasler, and Jeanna Miller. Seventh grade, Lauren Burke, Lindsey Edwards, Emily Harting, Pamela Koziorowski, Amy Kurth, Sandra Rusko, and Russell Todd. Eighth grade: Nick Ballinger, Beth Desbiens, Matt Fasana, Kurt Kintz, Shawn King, John Schultz, Dale Thiele, and Ann Witbrod. Congratulations, kids. Keep up the good work!

facilities for 10 boys' and 10 girls' basketball home games a large physical education facility could be constructed.

"We would build this school with the real possibility of expanding from that very point," he added.

Polley Field, a 51-acre tract of land already owned by the district, has been selected as the site of the new school. The proposed building would accommodate 2,400 students, including classrooms for all academic areas, necessary lab space, vocational/technical education facilities, an auditorium, cafeteria, library, physical education and athletic areas, fine arts and swimming pool.

According to enrollment projections by the Northeastern Planning Commission, the populations of the areas included in Dist. 117 will increase as follows: Antioch, 55 percent; Lindenhurst, 52 percent and Lake Villa 205 percent.

Presently, the high school is located on a 27-acre site which is approximately half of the state-recommended size for the current enrollment of about 1,600 students.

Barnstable honored for 50 years of fire fighting

Vern "Barney" Barnstable was honored for his 50 years of service to the Antioch Fire Department.

The Antioch Village Board of Trustees unanimously passed a resolution commending Barnstable for his 50 years of dedicated service to the community.

Currently the "Honorable Deputy Chief" of the department, Barnstable continues to serve as an active firefighter.

Barnstable was presented with a plaque in honor of his accomplishments. He was honored before his fellow officers at a presentation at the Feb. 11 meeting of the the Antioch board.

Wearing blinders

In the broad view, politicians and significant segments of the media have been giving disproportionately large amounts of attention to the role played by tollways in providing answers to transportation problems in burgeoning Lake County.

There's a reason for this and the answer lies somewhere akin to the military-industrial complex that is often blamed by war critics for flaming militarism in America. Road builders and developers who profit most when tollways are built tend to be heavy contributors to candidates and political parties. So like-mindedness for tollways is natural for the builders-developers-politician complex.

There are other means of transportation and other ways to solve transportation problems other than building new tollways. We have always tried to keep this in mind. Gayle M. Franzen, chairman of the Regional Transportation Authority, and a former executive director of the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority, states flatly that new tollways alone will not solve traffic muddle.

Quite correctly, Franzen sees tollways as part of a network of highways, buses, rail and new technology.

RTA's innovative efforts in recent years to unsnarl congestion largely have been overlooked by politicians and the press in the heated battle over the extension of Rte. 53 into central Lake County and the euphoria over the early success of the new North-South Tollway running through DuPage County. Metra, RTA's commuter rail arm, is looking at new rail corridors. Pace, the bus division, is having signal success with van pooling and express buses. RTA even is investigating the potential of Personal Rapid Transit, small cars seating five or fewer passengers on lightweight guideways.

It doesn't take too much imagination to appreciate how new rail lines could help alleviate suburban congestion and at the same time contribute to necessary growth and development. Yet proposals for new rail corridors and upgrading existing highways languish while the hue and cry continues over carving new tollway routes through environmentally sensitive areas and precious open space.

There is a crying need for greater investment in public transportation yet from President Bush on down, political leaders cling to the old ways or find reasons to divert resources away from innovation. Our leaders are wearing blinders and we are suffering for their short-sightedness.

Viewpoint

Wild creatures enjoy homes in suburbia

by BILL SCHROEDER

Oh, deer!

While everyone is worrying about the population explosion in Lake County (people), there's another form of population growth (wildlife) that is causing alarm.

The deer population of Lake County definitely is on the rise, according to Frank Drummond, wildlife biologist with the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist., and residents of Antioch are up in arms over a beachhead established by a colony of beaver.

Raiding raccoons are a continuing problem to householders living near wooded areas, but now complaints are coming in regularly about foraging deer dining on expensive suburban shrubbery, Drummond reported.

Bambi and cousins apparently are moving into the county on a pace akin to human beings. During a fly-over of district property in the DesPlaines River valley a few weeks ago, Drummond counted 348 deer on 7,600 acres of public lands. The deer are easy to spot on a sunny day with good snow cover, Drummond pointed out.

Drummond said the counting process was a little more sketchy for Forest Preserves in other parts of the county. But deer are plentiful everywhere, both on public and private property, the biologist indicated. Drummond declined to hazard a guess as to the exact number of four-footed residents.

Somewhat surprisingly, Drummond found the highest concentration of deer in Columbia Gardens at Lake-Cook Rd. in the Deerfield area, a locality surrounded by development. This proves, I suppose, that deer can coexist with humans in a highly urbanized environment. Second highest concentration was in Gander Mountain Preserve in the extreme northwest corner of the county near the Wisconsin stateline. Grant Township Forest Preserve has a growing herd of 25 deer. The VanPatten Woods Preserve in Newport Township of 1,080 acres has only 10 deer. The Wadsworth Savannah of 1,123 acres nearby has a deer population of 61. Drummond said deer are particular about their surroundings.

A plan to exterminate the pesky beavers at Channel Lake was scrubbed under pressure of citizens looking for a more human solution. Mike Dunaj, who oversees care of the channel which is vital to boat movement, found about 100 trees downed by beavers doing what beavers do. Conservation Officer Rick Giovengo said humans invited the beavers with channel dredging.

What to do about geese and ducks that spend the winter here is an entirely different story. Many of the flocks, picturesque as they might be, have become downright nuisances.

What's happening is that deer, beaver and waterfowl are flourishing because their natural predators have disappeared. That's sort of what has been happening with the two-legged species.

Maybe all of this proves only one thing—Lake County is a mighty attractive place to live.

WONDER WOMAN—Frances Wilkins, a correspondent for Lakeland Newspapers, says she's feeling better every day and looking forward to returning to work in the Vernon Township office after a six-months hospital stay and five major operations. Given more than 100 pints of blood, Frances said the folks at Condell Hospital call her the "Miracle Lady." She was hospitalized due to complications from cancer treatment. Here's hoping spring weather speeds her recovery.

*****

JOINS FIGHT—State Sen. Adeline J. Geo-Karis has joined the fight to preserve 162 acres at Ft. Sheridan for a national cemetery. She reminded Sec. EDward Derwinski of the Dept. of Veterans Affairs that there are about 800,000 veterans in Lake and Cook counties who look favorably upon such a designation. Geo-Karis seldom enters a fight she can't win. Her support is a good sign. "Geo" is a veteran herself, serving in the Navy during World War II.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY—Mid-February is a great time for gardeners who are scouting all the seed catalogs and getting advance "work" done from an armchair. Pop has his game plan organized and ready to go as soon as the weatherman cooperates—at least two months from now.

Letters To The Editor

Police dept. ruined

Editor:

Whether Chief Charles Miller is retained or replaced the police department will never work together again. They should work together like a close knit family. Instead there is animosity between some. All have succeeded in ruining a fine police department. All heads should hang in shame.

The police and fire departments are the two most important departments in the village. Is the fire department the next target? Plenty of tax money has been wasted needlessly by this childish bickering. All voters better take a close look at all candidates at the next election and get out and vote.

Determined to destroy

Editor:

It is unfortunate Lake County's self appointed saviors—Jack Martin, his sister, Suzanne Herbes, and Patrick Connors—weren't trained aviators during the early 1940s when their determination to destroy anyone disagreeing with them might have been useful. While their inability to defeat outspoken open space advocate Carol Calabresa in last year's Lake County Board election would have caused less dedicated warriors to accept reality, this trio continues full speed ahead, damn the torpedoes.

For her part, Herbes contends Calabresa somehow caused a rock to fly from a gravel truck and break her windshield. While she was trying to sell this whacky scenario, Connors was charging Calabresa with filing improper campaign finance reports. As the State Board of Elections was investigating and rejecting this complaint, Martin shocked us by revealing his personal sleuthing and found Calabresa had accepted campaign contributions from environmentalists.

While the impact of this bombshell was still being felt, Connors flew back on another sortie to inform us that had the County Board's pro-development forces not been on combat alert, Calabresa might have been successful in saving the Thorngate Country Club from becoming another subdivision.

Getting facts wrong

Editor:

I wish Paul Marvin would get his facts right. The present administration negotiated to reduce the density of Cambridge College Trails from what was ordered by the federal court. Also, they have reduced the density of Pulte from what it was originally when annexed in 1981. Also, the schools and parks have gotten millions of dollars in impact fees.

Now, Mr. Marvin, asks the schools what they have received from Round Lake Beach from development on Rte. 83 and from the Mallard Creek Shopping Mall. Seeing that Mr. Marvin is a new resident in town, only a few months, he should become better informed and not from his neighbor, Mr. LaCroix.

Brad Buckley

Stop the pettiness

Editor:

What a terrible example the Antioch board sets. We had two fine candidates for mayor, Toft and Wilton. It seems no matter what is suggested by the mayor, it is shot down.

There is an election coming up. Perhaps the board should get its act together for the welfare of the village. I voted for a mayor, not Don Amundsen or Tim Wells to have all the authority. Let's have a board work together and stop the pettiness. Our village is the only one out to get the mayor. Maybe new board members should be elected.

A. Bennett
Antioch

Credit to society

Editor:

Three quarter of the world's population aren't Christians. Christians can feel they are ill informed, but can they feel they are wicked or bad people?

I don't accept the Bible as being a factual book. That makes me an atheist for which I am neither proud nor ashamed. A person doesn't have to be a Christian to be a credit to society.

J.C. Kearby
Round Lake

Power of prayer

Editor:

I think it's so neat the way God gets His children to pray. People who never set foot in church or temple are on their knees praying and crying out to Him to keep a loved one safe, or bring someone home that is "over there." God has always been and will always be there in times of good and bad. He still answers prayer and loves you. Why is it then, that we only call out to Him when we're in a bind? He'll never leave you, whether you love Him or not.

Gail Budzban
Round Lake Beach

Helping lower taxes

Editor:

I would like to thank the Libertyville village board members for allowing the David Adler Cultural Center to seek landmark status with the National Register for Historic Places. This decision in no way affects the village's right to use the property in the best interest of the residents, but it does allow the Adler Center the ability to apply for state and federal loans that are only available to registered sights. With improvement of the Adler Center, Libertyville has a very viable tourist and cultural attraction.

With all of our concerns about the rise in property taxes, to develop the Center to its potential will bring non-residents to the area. Hopefully they will stop in our downtown area, spend money and, thus, raise the sales tax received by the village. Such economic revitalization can only help the coffers of the village. As the village receives money from areas such as sales tax, then perhaps we can see a reduction in our tax bills. Any action that revitalizes the downtown is a boost for the residents.

Sallie Hamm

YOU MISSED IT—If you weren't at the 43rd annual Lincoln Day dinner of the Grant Twp. Republican Club last Saturday you missed a good one.

I know it was the 43rd because township trustee Adam Skrzenta was recognized for attending every one. Also in the audience was Recorder of Deeds Frank Nustra, who also shown up at 43 of these.

Adding a patriotic touch was Coroner Barbara Richardson and Circuit Court Clerk Sally Coffelt joining in a duet of "America" Coffelt then played the piano while Richardson recited an original poem about the troops in Operation Desert Storm.

Carrying through with that theme were 260 hand-tied yellow ribbons with American flags, one for each guest. Chairman Gordon Kiesgen and volunteers made them. Kiesgen, who is club president, also gave out his customary Lincoln head penny glued to a small card.

The ladies got their early Valentine's Day gift—a heart-shaped box of chocolates.

And the Heartbeat Award for the Republican who has done most for the party in the past year? That was won by very-one's favorite coroner, Richardson.

All in all, it was a great time.

DARK THREAT—Things are starting to boil over in the Great Island Lake Trustee Race.

A friend of challenger Fred Bigham filed objections to the incomplete nominating petitions of incumbents Georgine Cooper and Steve Stiller.

During an Election Commission hearing on the challenge last Saturday a sister of Cooper reportedly told the person filing the challenge, "You better not be caught in a dark place."

Not afraid of the dark is Donna Domrowski, an Island Lake police dispatcher. She lodged a complaint with her boss. She wants him to know where she might be in case she doesn't show up for work some morning.

This week a new wrinkle was added. The village clerk said only 26 signatures were needed on trustee nominating petitions. That's all the incumbents turned in. New calculations show that 27 may be the correct number.

And so it goes in Island Lake.

NEWS FROM THE FRONT—Peter Karlovics, the Warren Twp. Republican precinct committeeman now in Saudia Arabia, is alive and well. His reserve Marine unit was called up shortly after Thanksgiving. This took him away from his family, friends, politics and his new job of several weeks as an attorney in the Gurnee law offices of Rudy Magna Jr.

One report from the front had Karlovics in a helicopter on a training mission two weeks ago near the border with Kuwait. The Marines were to swarm the supposedly abandoned town as a training exercise. Just as they were about to head in they saw and heard enemy gunfire. An Iraqi contingent had moved in overnight.

Karlovics' helicopter and unit returned to their base. Other Marines were sent in to clean out the invaders. Eight were killed.

Karlovics' parents in Gurnee could not confirm the story. "We only know what we read in the newspaper," his mother said. "We follow reports about movements and locations of different units."

Mom Karlovics did say that Peter is gung ho and is proud to be doing his military job.

FRIENDLY APPOINTMENT—

Another retired County Board member has a new job. Crusty Matthew Miholic of Lake Bluff is the newest member of the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Miholic was defeated for re-election last November after being a fixture in the courthouse for what seemed like forever.

He may be gone, but not forgotten. New County Board Chairman Robert Depke saw to that. The opportunity came when William Sullivan of Libertyville retired from the appeals board.

Depke quickly named Miholic to the $48-per-meeting job. Meetings are three or four times a month.

The job may not pay the $30,000-plus per year Miholic formerly received, but it does keep him around and in a key voting position for the pro-development administration.

HUSSAIN HARRASSERS—

Hussain, Hussein, Husain? Is the first name Saddam? Ali? George? M.?

Some callers don't seem to care. They want to harass the person on the other end.

Last week Libertyville police received a complaint from one of the people with almost the same last name as the Middle East dictator about the growing number of malicious calls.

Others listed in the phone book said they have not had the same problem. Telephone numbers of those living in Mundelein and Round Beach are available only through the operator or not at all.

Maybe it depends on their first name, not the last.

BREAKFAST AT MERS—If

you're in Wauconda on Saturday morning, Feb. 23, you might want to have breakfast with the Citizens Party. It will be at Mers Restaurant, 313 E. Liberty St., starting at 9 a.m. Tickets for $10 each are available at the door.

Those attending will have a chance to meet incumbent trustees Theodore Kipp and Louise Moore and newcomers Kenneth Sjorslev and Richard Stanger.

within a stone's throw of Emmons School property where many new homes will be filled with children to be educated at Emmons. I thank the village for being so kind. And double fees to tap into Antioch sewers!

Is Antioch simply following Lindenhurst's lead? Lindenhurst wants more than $250,000 to run sewers to a new high school. These are not businesses or developments. These are public schools for the education of our children.

Wouldn't it be nice if village governments showed the taxpayers that they care? Perhaps they could extend sewer lines to these schools for no more than actual cost. I must be dreaming. No one would profit. I only hope that as villages continue to annex, develop and grow, that they do it responsibly. Then try something new---think!

Weak-spined officials

Editor:

Poor Suzanne Herbes. She was so incensed by a broken windshield that she hauled her camera into the Forest Preserve, violating the No Trespassing signs "clearly posted on every telephone pole along River Rd." Suspicious, she was determined to see what current commissioner Carol Calabresa and past commissioner Mike Graham "wanted to hide." Once inside the No Trespassing area, she was enraged to see a pile of hickory, oak and maple trees "bigger than anything Mr. T. or developer's bulldozer could do."

Didn't it ever occur to Herbes that the No Trespassing signs she ignored might have been posted because a gravel pit is a dangerous place to be, with or without a camera and a foaming mouth? Calabresa and Graham are/were but two of 24 members of the Forest Preserve Board and only half of the elected representatives of Dist. 5? Are the others so weak-spined that they have no say in what happens to Forest Preserve property in their district?

What makes all this so funny is that Herbes, she who writes so movingly of the "trees that were once so tall and beautiful and mighty, most of which cold have been saplings as Indians traveled the Des Plaines basin," is none other than the sister of Jack Martin, who also in January fired a libelous salvo at Carol Calabresa, charging her of financial conflict of interest and money laundering, charges which the State Board of Elections promptly investigated and threw out.

And what makes this even funnier is that besides being Herbes' brother, Mr. Martin is also the fellow whose "Taxpayers for Good Government" PAC collected $54,575 in six months from a lumber yard, a waste-treatment company, a concrete contractor, PACs representing developers and realtors, and the like, and turned that money loose in the county to ensure the election of Robert Depke, Colin McRae, Robert Grever, and Charlotte Kiesgen, all blatantly pro-development, to the County Board/Forest Preserve Board. No such big bucks went into Calabresa's campaign coffers, despite Mr. Martin's self-serving accusations.

So here's poor Suzanne Herbes, ranting about how the evil deeds of "the only two self-proclaimed environmentalists in Dist. 5" made her think she had "entered a desolate planet, barren, scarred, plundered land, raped by Calabresa and Graham." Poor, poor Suzanne Herbes! It must be tough to have both environmental sensitivity and a brother who's working as hard as he can on behalf of the developers, etc. Wonder how Ms. Herbes will feel if, when, her brother's cronies have their way and Lake County is scarred, plundered, and paved end to end? Reckon she'll still be foaming at the mouth?

Reborn Electroliner: back to the future

by BILL SCHROEDER
Lakeland Newspapers

When the famed North Shore Line's Electroliner made its re-inaugural run 50 years to the day that it was put into service, John Horachek picked up a part of his life that was interrupted 28 years ago.

Horachek was the conductor on the last run of the sleek train, the world's first all-electric streamline train, when the interurban line serving a substantial part of Lake County went out of business for good in 1963.

"Doesn't seem like that long ago," remarked Horachek, now an Indiana high school teacher, as he went about the business of supervising Electroliner operations again as the 155-foot long, four car train was made ready for its new life on five miles of track at the Illinois Railway Museum in central McHenry County.

Grinning broadly and attired in his conductor's uniform that had been cared for carefully for the past quarter century, Horachek greeted press representatives, club members and some first riders on the inaugural trip in 1941.

Horachek signalled to the motorman just like he did for the last time 28 years ago, swung aboard and the Electroliner moved smoothly away from the platform.

With the shiny visored conductor's hat cocked jauntily on the back of his head—a Horachek trademark remembered by some veteran North Shore riders—the conductor began "collecting" souvenir tickets distributed earlier.

Now a Latin and history teacher at Arcadia, Ind., Horachek proudly produced his conductor's wallet containing tickets and trip orders. He punched each ticket with the same punch he had used years ago.

The wallet contained all the cancelled tickets from the Electroliner's last round trip from Milwaukee to Chicago—90 south bound and 74 northbound. "They let me keep my tickets," remarked Horachek as he explained the auditing system of the railway that went out of business due to financial maneuverings of a group of eastern investors, not for lack of passengers.

As the repainted train in its original forest green and salmon cruised quickly up to 35 miles per hour, Horachek told reporters about his typical day as a young conductor on the Electroliner, sometimes two round trips. There were two identical trains, each making two daily round trips on the Skokie Valley Route from Chicago to Waukegan and along the Lake Michigan shore to Milwaukee.

"I once did two and a half trips. Travel time between Chicago and Milwaukee was about two hours, usually a little less. We had all sorts of travelers, business commuters, families going to see relatives and people 'just going somewhere'."

Horachek knew every crossing and signal like the back of his hand. He was a good friend of hundreds of passengers. To test his memory, he began calling out stops—North Chicago Junction, Edison Court, Kenosha, Racine and down-t-o-w-n Milwaukee. Just like old times.

The lounge car was open for business on the press trip manned by a club volunteer.

Visitors enjoyed coffee and sandwiches while watching snow covered cornfields pass by. Everyone chuckled at the prices listed on a recreated Electroliner menu, a variety of sandwiches and beverages all for under $1 and the train's main culinary attraction—the "Electroburger" with all the trimmings for $1.40.

Conductor Horachek took time out from conversation to deftly handle one of the conductor's duties—pulling down the southbound trolley and raising the northbound trolley as the Electroliner changed directions on the one-way track at its new home.

With controls at both ends, the Electroliner never turned around.

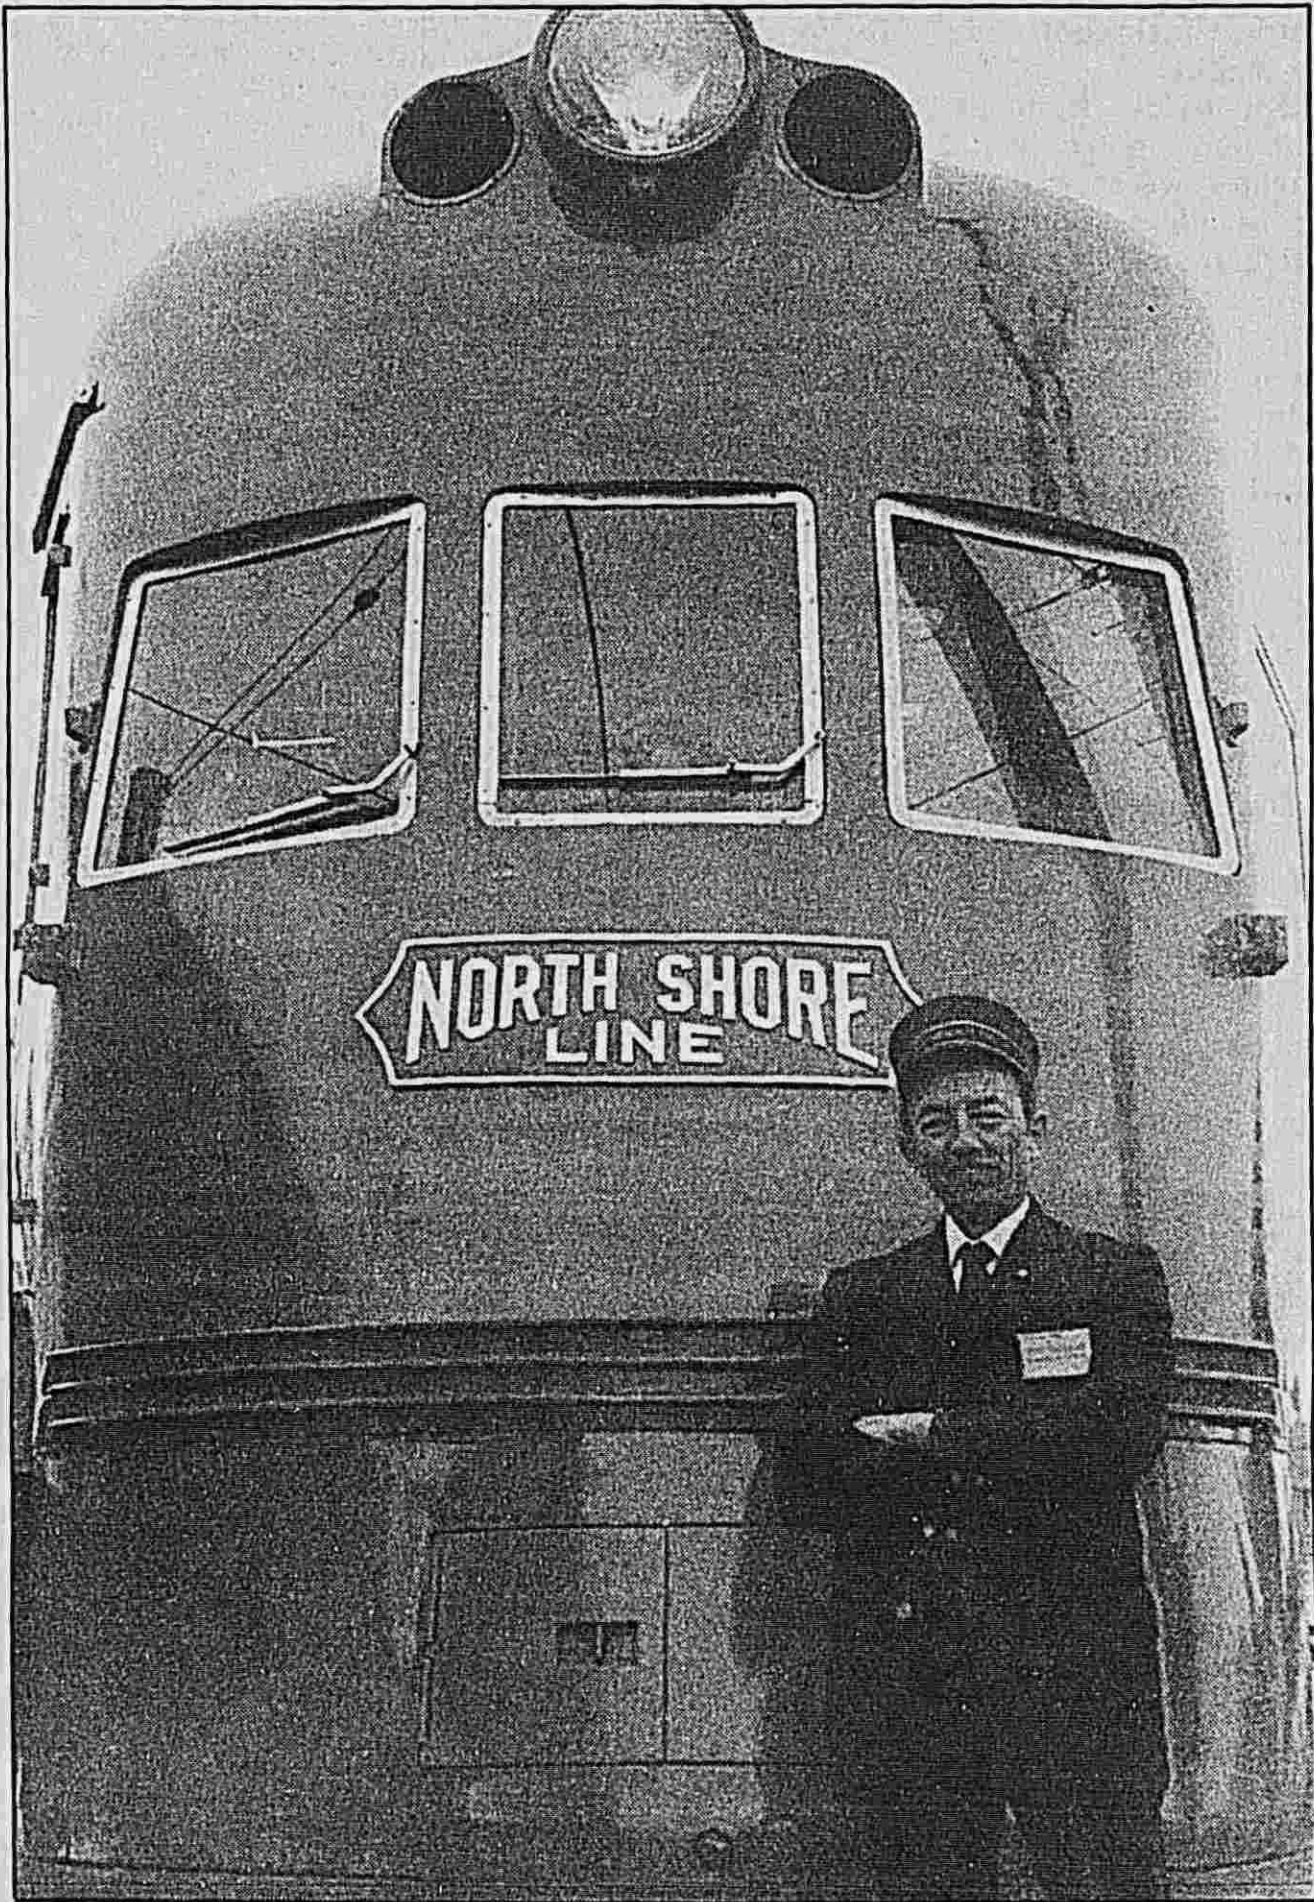

Horachek showed how seats mounted on a pivot were reversed when the train changed directions. "Haven't forgot how to do it," the former conductor exclaimed.

A major northern Illinois tourist attraction, the railroad museum is open weekends spring and fall and every day during the summer for tours and rides. The Electroliner is sure to become a major attraction.

Horachek complimented Gregory H. Heier, editor of the museum's official publication on the expert restoration work. "Everything is right," the historian noted, "except the gold leaf outlines on the striping. That was original. But the gold leaf was omitted in 1946 during repainting."

Does John Horachek know the Electroliner? Does Bo know?

Quite a reunion—a conductor and his train. Train buffs are having a field day at the museum, which, incidentally, has a Union Station now besides a reborn Electroliner.

Conductor and his train

John Horachek, conductor on last run of Electroliner in 1963, expresses satisfaction with refurbishing of famed streamliner for new home at Illinois Railway Museum. Horachek donned his North Shore Line uniform to welcome passengers aboard, including Lakeland Newspapers' Publisher William H. Schroeder, center photo, for re-inaugural run 50 years to day after first run in 1941. Photographers have field day taking photos of what once was world's fastest electric streamliner. On first day of operation, Electroliners leaving Chicago and Milwaukee simultaneously met at Waukegan where railroad officials, civic leaders and dignitaries celebrated with commemorative luncheon at Glen Flora Country Club. Train that set world speed record in excess of 110 MPH carried thousands of passengers every year before line declared bankruptcy and Electroliners were purchased by Philadelphia interurban line.—Staff photos

Girl Scouts told to limit political activities

By CLAUDIA M. LENART
Lakeland Newspapers

Lake County Girl Scouts who are part of the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council were reminded this week that they are not supposed to get involved in war rallies nor wear yellow ribbons on their uniforms.

The reminder was in keeping with Girl Scouts of the USA policy. "It's a standard we have to try to keep. We're not supposed to get involved in any activity that can be construed as political," said Ann Hartney, assistant director of development/communications for the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council.

Hartney said the letter was issued to girl scout troops because many parents and group leaders were asking if girl scouts could wear yellow ribbons and other related questions. "We're not supposed to wear anything that's not an official insignia. We have no control over rallies. We wouldn't want the girls to be in a situation where they can get hurt," said Hartney.

As many Lake County residents know, girl scouts have been involved in ribbon decorating activities throughout the county. Said Hartney, "We can tell them what they should or shouldn't do and encourage them to do certain things, but we're not going to punish them. We're not out there policing."

Hartney said the girl scout troops were issued information packets telling them what sort of activities they can do to support families affected by the war such as household help and babysitting. "Girls are encouraged to write letters. There are lots of things they can do to help," said Hartney. She added that the girls are not prohibited from political activities as individuals, only when they are acting as girls scouts.

Temporary Employment

Temporary work means flexible lifestyle for agency employees

by CLAUDIA LENART
Lakeland Newspapers

Temporary employment has become a permanent solution for many students, mothers and others who are looking for work that is flexible and varied.

"It's like having teacher's hours without being a teacher," said Peggy Faust, who has been working as a temporary since last fall. Faust turned to Murphy Temporary Service because she wanted work, but she didn't want to spend lots of time away from her three young children. Work as a temporary allows her to be home on school holidays and breaks and all summer long, if she chooses.

"Summers are the hardest for working mothers. You can't leave kids home alone all day long," explained Faust.

For JoAnn Glim who has worked as a temporary for about 9 years, vacation flexibility was also the motivating force prompting her to turn to Kelly Temporary Services. "I wanted the flexibility to have time to myself. Also my husband has worked for so many years at the same company that I wouldn't have the same amount of vacation time if I started a new job," said Glim.

Debbie Palace, a college student, found that temporary office work paid better than other types of available summer jobs. She has worked as a "temp" at Murphy for three years during summers and school breaks. "It's very convenient. You can work as long as you want to. If you want to go on vacation, you can. When you come back, you just call and say you want to work again."

Besides flexibility, temporary agencies offer a chance to "test the waters," said Faust. "You get to see what type of work is available. You can see where you fit in, whether that's a big company or a small company." Palace said she has had the opportunity to gain much more work experience than her college peers. "I've had the chance to see a lot of different companies, so I know what I would like to do. A lot of my friends in school don't know what it will be like," said Palace.

Temporary employees also say that the variety of work experience is a great way to build skills. "I've worked in so many different offices, that sometimes I have seen things that work well and can bring that skill to a new job," said Glim.

Some of the attributes noted as being beneficial assets to a temporary worker are adaptability, ability to learn quickly, and good communication skills. "You need to like people and have a willingness to help because sometimes you walk into a crises situation," said Glim. Faust said, "You have to be very flexible. You have to be able to roll with it."

ComputerTots teaches kids that computers don't bite

by MARY SULLIVAN
Lakeland Newspapers

They've invaded our homes and offices. They've intimidated many adults and have others shunning away in fear. Now, parents are exposing their very young children to them.

They are computers, and ComputerTots is helping to take the "bite" out of learning to operate a computer for 3 to 5-year olds.

"Our purpose is to get them to feel confident with the computer and feel friendly toward it," said Len King, Director of the ComputerTots franchise serving Lake County.

Thirty-five area day care centers have tapped into the ComputerTots circuit which is designed to familiarize preschoolers with the basic components and operations of a computer.

"I see the concept of the pre-school computer experience expand greatly," said King, "it's going to really mushroom when people start finding out about it."

What parents are finding out is that their youngsters are getting a jump on the vital technology and having fun doing it.

"It's fun for them because they're the one that gets to be in charge," he added.

Developed about 6 years ago by two teachers from the East Coast, ComputerTots has branched out to include 25 franchises nationwide. King, a music teacher at Rolling Meadows High School and a computer buff, was introduced to the program through an advertisement in Changing Times magazine. His interest took him and his wife, Joan who is music supervisor for the Round Lake School District and the high school choral director, to Great Falls, Va. to learn more about the program. So impressed, they purchased a franchise and put it to work in Illinois in October, 1990.

The network's ten instructors are college trained in computer education and have prior childhood educational experience. The once-a-week sessions involve no more than five students at a time to provide for personalized attention. Cost of the program is $6 per week and King reports that about one-third to one-half or about 450 children in the day care centers are involved. The program is provided at no cost to day care providers and participation is solely at the discretion of the parents.

Although the primary objective of the program is to acquaint the students with the computer keyboard and make them comfortable with the apparatus, they also pick up valuable grammatical tools.

"We're not taking the place of pre-school teachers, it's a supplement," said King.

Most of the students are familiar with the alphabet and numerals and are anxious to put their knowledge to work on the computer screen.

"It's not academic, it's for fun," he added.

The children tune into a colorful and simple programs and a spirited melody signals a job well done. All of this is overseen by "CT" (Computer Turtle), mascot of the program who perches atop the monitor. Each participant also receives a t-shirt.

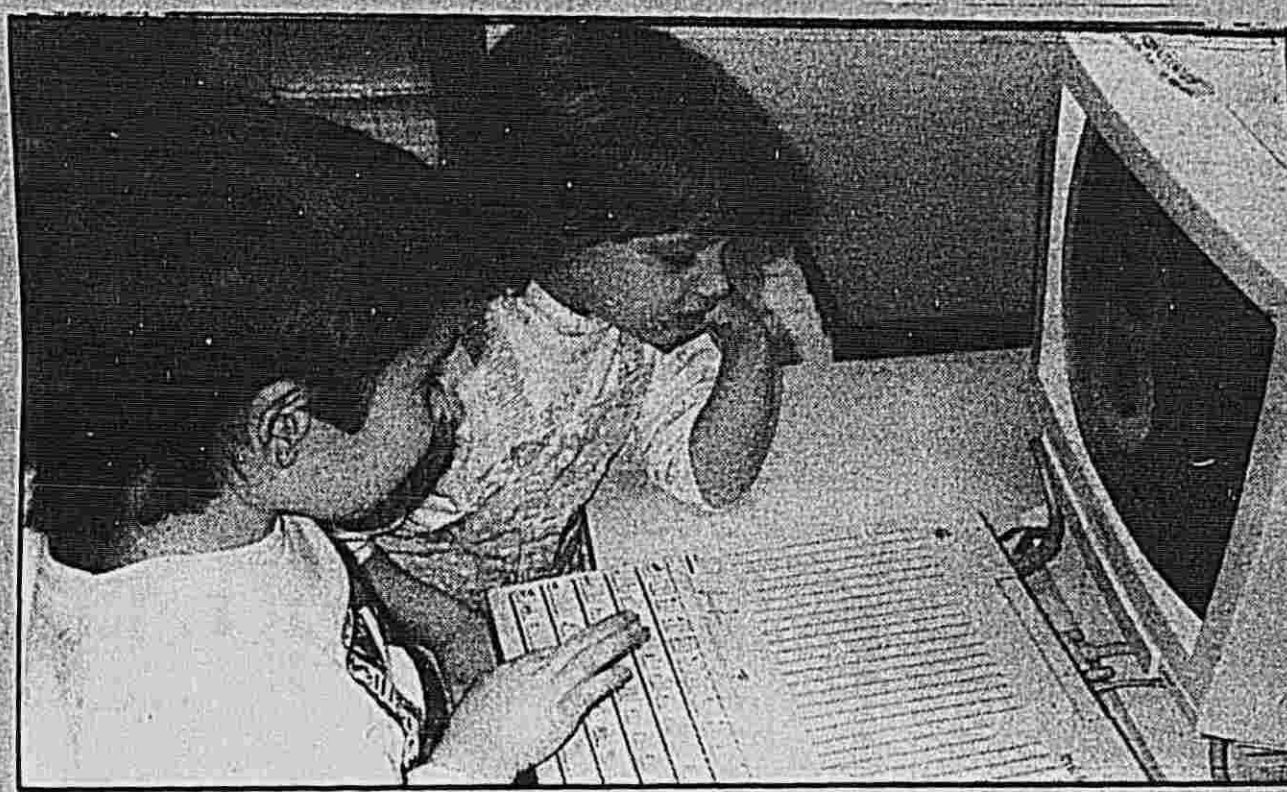

The amiable tone of the project encourages children to venture fearlessly into the world of computer technology.

"There are so many adults that are just afraid of working with the computer," said King, "but these kids will never be that."

ComputerTots is set to expand to include children ages 6-8 in the Computer Explorer program. Additionally, King seeking the cooperation of park districts for the implementation of a summer program.

Fujisawa markets hypercalcemia drug

Deerfield—Fujisawa USA Inc. has begun marketing Ganite, a drug that has proven effective for fighting hypercalcemia, a sometimes fatal side effect in cancer patients in which calcium enters the bloodstream. Ganite or gallium nitrate, patented by Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York, was approved by the FDA on Jan. 17. Researchers at Sloan-Kettering have found that the drug produced normal calcium levels in 75 percent of patients tested. Hypercalcemia is estimated to occur in up to 20 percent of cancer patients.

Consumers should measure life insurance costs

by DONALD N. CRAMPTON

Life insurance, that is, death benefits paid to a named beneficiary, is a commodity. As with most commodities, it is (or should be) the aim of the consumer to purchase life insurance death benefits (not cash values) for as little money as possible. After all, a death benefit paid by Company A is identical to one paid by Company B; one coming from a whole life (cash value) policy is the same as from a term (no cash value) policy.

A key element in determining the cost for life insurance is the amount of time that proceeds of a life insurance policy must be available to the insured's beneficiary in order to achieve its intended purposes. These purposes can, and do, vary all over the map.

Some policies are bought to cover measurable debt obligations, e.g., car or consumer loans. Some are bought to cover longer term, but known obligations, e.g., home mortgages or until the youngest child is self sufficient. Some are of a permanent but indeterminate period, e.g., to provide income to a surviving spouse or other dependent, to satisfy estate settlement costs at death, etc.

Having established the amount of insurance needed and, as importantly, the period of time it must be maintained in force, the calculation of its cost becomes relatively straightforward. Initial outlay is only one of several criteria which need to be evaluated (though a crucial one when protection needs are high relative to available premium dollars).

The first step in the calculation is to clearly identify among competing approaches the minimum outflow of premium dollars necessary to maintain the desired amount of coverage in force for the desired period of time. Term insurance will carry low initial premiums, but will increase as the years go by.

Whole life will carry level premiums for life. Variations in whole life, or universal life, assess relatively higher premiums followed by a cessation of significant reduction in premiums.

Some policies may offer gradually increasing death benefits, and so on. Some cash value policies may offer cash or dividend withdrawal privileges to the policyholder, in effect returning cash on a wholly or partially non-taxable basis and these returns of cash should be accounted for in the analysis.

After having determined the relative cash flows required by the competing alternative, the next step is to account for the "cost of money" to the policyholder.

Simply put, if the alternatives require different scheduled premium outlays, as they doubtless will, these differences must be factored into the cost calculations. Thus, if premium outlay for one alternative is higher initially than for the other(s), the difference in premiums should be calculated as an additional cost, the absence of which would leave the policyholder with funds to be invested or saved at some readily available rate of return. (A common certificate of deposit, savings or borrowing rate—with all tax effects considered—should be used in the calculation.)

This difference will develop a "side fund" or other assets owned by the policyholder. In later years, as the initially lower premium alternative increases in cost, and initially higher priced alternative stabilizes or reduces in cost, the reverse is true so that withdrawals from the "side fund" may be necessary to maintain the initially lower priced contract.

Should the "side fund" decrease to or below zero (making additional out-of-pocket outlays, beyond exhaustion of the "side fund" necessary), the initially higher premium alternative should be selected. Should that not occur during the targeted period of coverage, the lower cost alternative should be chosen.

A simple alternative to the above set of calculations is utilization of the "present value" method of measurement, whereby a reasonable value of each alternative's stream of annual premium payments, accounting for the time value of money, is totalled and their sums simply compared, with the lowest total identifying the alternative which should be selected. Again, the "present value" factor should be a percentage which reflects the return the policyholder could reasonably achieve in the market place.

Now this method of analysis absolutely does not account for cash value increases or any of the other characteristics of today's life insurance policies. It is concerned exclusively with quantifying the overall cost of purchasing a known and future death benefit. Cash values, withdrawal and non-forfeiture values are subjects for future columns.

Remember, all is not necessarily what it seems. Thoughtful, rational assessment of true life insurance needs and the duration of the period of those needs establish the foundation for an unbiased assessment of cost.

Donald N. Crampton, CLU, ChFC, is president of Crampton, Lewis and Company, Inc., Chicago.

Baxter gets $2.6 million incentive to stay in Lake County

by FRED BIGHAM
Lakeland Newspapers

Baxter Healthcare Corp. headquartered in Deerfield will receive a total of $2.6 million in incentives in order to expand their facilities in Lake County instead of Wisconsin as previously announced.

Lake County Board Chairman Robert Depke presented the plan to the County Board in a last minute proposal in which the county would relieve the company of $351,000 in property taxes over a period of ten years with the stipulation that they would expand their facilities within Waukegan.

The county also agreed to fund consulting engineering services at a cost of $180,579 and appropriated $240 in matching tax funds for miscellaneous costs associated with right of way needs.

Voting against the measure, which is estimated to retain 360 jobs in the area were Members Larry Leafblad and Bobby O'Reilly. Carol Calabrese of Libertyville voted to abstain.

The City of Waukegan is considering abating

$203,000 in taxes if the company will expand within the city.

Phase I of the project, which according to Rains, Distribution Division President of Baxter, will include 550,000 square feet under one roof. Phase II is a planned addition to the structure which will double the floor space to over 1 million sq. ft. The site, which will be purchased from Amli, is located along 22nd Street between U.S. Rte. 41 and Ill. Rte. 43.

Due to heavy truck traffic at the distribution center the county and city of Waukegan are planning the widening of 22nd Street. Construction should begin in March 1992 with the opening of the distribution center slated for Fall of 1992.

In order to widen 22nd Street into a 5 lane route it was necessary to secure additional right of way on both the North and South sides of the existing street. Amli currently owns the property on the North, while Abbott Laboratories has the land on the south.

Depke said that the county highway department has secured a commitment from Abbott to make a donation of 20 to 30 feet of right of way on the South Side of 22nd Street at no cost.

"The retention of 360 jobs is critical to former industrial towns like Waukegan and North Chicago, which have seen so many factory closings and economic reversals in the past," said Depke, "Baxter's decision to remain in Lake County means a great deal to our local economy."

The decision to give the company a tax abatement in order to convince them to remain in the county was the first ever by the county board, although the county has had the authority to do so for 8 years.

Depke pledged that he would continue to work for the retention of area jobs by trying to induce business to stay in the county, "There are others coming," he said.

Board Member Larry Leafblad, in voting against the proposal, said that it was a "Dangerous precedent."

Depke, on the other hand, made it clear that he favored concessions in order to retain or create jobs in Lake County. Depke pledged, "There are others coming," citing the worsening economy and pointing out that if the county did not take aggressive action that firms would relocate out of state.

Dexter Employees exceed United Way goal by nearly a third

The Dexter Corporation's 295 Packaging Products Division and Specialty Coatings Division employees at Waukegan dug deeper than expected into their pocketbooks, contributing $15,300 to this year's United Way fund drive. Their goal had been $11,000.

The Dexter Corporation itself, headquartered in Connecticut, added $9,000 for a total Dexter contribution of $24,800.

The company's Waukegan employees, most of whom live in Lake County, "have again demonstrated their collective belief that 'people helping people' is more than just a catchy slogan," said Dexter Packaging Products Division President Harold T. Crutcher.

Global enterprises, the divisions manufacture protective interior and exterior coatings and end sealants for beer, soft drink, and food cans; coatings for glass container closures and flexible packaging; adhesives for microwavable packaging, and adhesive primers; protective coatings for automotive, military, and recreational products; coatings for metal buildings, office furnishings, and housewares; exterior decorative and functional coatings for the world's major airlines; and coatings for graphic arts and wood products.

The Dexter Corporation, founded in 1767, is a Fortune 500 company whose ten operating divisions produce specialty materials for niche markets. It is the oldest firm listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Realtors report steady home appreciation

The Illinois Association of Realtors reported that the median sale price for Lake County homes in the 3rd quarter of 1990 was up 10.73 percent over the 3rd quarter of 1989. Of 18 Realtor Boards/Associations, Lake County was one of 15 which reported appreciation.

"This data shows housing values are holding firm in Illinois despite reports of a national decline," said Jerry Perlow, president of the Illinois Association of Realtors.

The median sale price in Lake County for the 3rd quarter of 1990 was $110,063, compared to $99,394 in 1989. The median sale price is not the same as the average price. A median price is the midpoint, half the homes sold for more and half sold for less. The survey covered median prices for existing single-family homes sold by members of board/associations of Realtors reporting.

Lake County was the second biggest gainer, beat only be Mid Valley (in the Kewanee area) which rose 14.18 percent, from $25,861 to $29,530.

Perlow said "The diverse economy of Illinois has made our state more resilient by being less tied to any one single industry. Currently Illinois is reaping rewards from having avoided the double digit inflation experienced in the Northeast and West Coast. This was a market phenomenon apparent throughout the 1980s in the coastal areas, from which they are struggling to recover."

Winter Home Improvement

Replace windows to boost home's value

Home remodeling and renovation can be important ways to build on your home investment.

One of the easiest, most practical and flexible remodeling investments is the replacement of windows and doors in the home. Many older windows are leaky, single-paned energy-wasters.

From an aesthetic standpoint, window design, placement and grouping have undergone a remarkable transformation. By replacing old windows and doors, an owner can give his or her home a "face-lift" that will take 20 years off its apparent age and increase its value significantly.

Window renovation also can restore the historic beauty and increase the value of an older Victorian, Georgian or Colonial style home.

Window remodeling options are limited only by an owner's imagination, and there are several window-based renovations homeowners may consider.

Windows with a single pane of glass are notorious energy-wasters. Dual-pane windows with two panes of glass or insulating glass are twice as efficient as standard single-pane windows, and a wood frame is more than twice as efficient as aluminum. Simply by installing wood-frame, dual-pane windows, homeowners can cut the energy loss through windows by more than half, significantly reducing utility costs and boosting home equity.

Window design and placement have undergone tremendous change in just the past few years, leaving many otherwise attractive homes looking dated. An easy way to regain a contemporary appearance, and maintain or increase the value of a house, is by installing new windows and window composites.

Contemporizing a house can be as simple as adding half-circle and quarter-circle windows to existing window composites, or as extensive as designing and installing custom replacement windows.

Often a home's value can be significantly increased simply by adding features to existing windows, or by installing new windows with the desired features. Windows with special features such as the exclusive between-the-glass Slimshades®, pleated shades and removable muntin bars, interior reglazing, special low-E coating and custom-colored exteriors. In addition to improving the appearance of your house, Slimshades and pleated shades can double the energy efficiency of your windows.

Adding a bow or bay window is one of the most popular home renovations, and with good reason. In addition to opening up a room, expanding the view and increasing natural light, projected bow and bay windows boost living space. This can be especially valuable in a house situated on a narrow city or subdivision lot with limited room for expansion.

On a larger lot, a dramatic and effective way to increase both floor space and home equity is adding a sunroom or conservatory. These rooms provide year-round enjoyment of the outdoors without sacrificing energy efficiency.

Owners of older homes have a window dilemma: Though the original windows may be historically correct, they often are extremely inefficient. On the other hand, newer replacement windows are energy efficient, but many look out-of-place on an older house. There is a new collection of architecturally correct windows and doors which uses a new technology to mate the beauty and historical accuracy of turn-of-the-century windows with the energy efficiency of modern insulating glass.

In many cases, adding a single showpiece window or door can have a major effect on a home's appearance and value. Replacing a sliding glass door with a French door; installing a skylight in the kitchen, bedroom or bath; or framing the entrance with custom windows are common examples of cost-efficient home improvements that add individuality and equity to a house.

These window remodeling projects are only a few common renovations and it is suggested that homeowners visit a window store for more examples and ideas.

Safe Hammering

Most striking tools have 'do's' and 'don'ts' concerning their use, and hammers are no exception. Here are some of the more important ones:

Do strike squarely with no glancing blows.

Do wear safety goggles when hammering.

Do discard the hammer when the face shows excessive wear, mushrooming, chipping, dents, etc.

Don't strike with the side of the hammer.

Don't strike one hammer with another.

Don't use a hammer with a loose or damaged handle.

house dust found in carpets, mattresses, pillows and upholstery. They feed on the flakes of human skin and animal dander contained in the dust.

The presence of house dust mites is not a result of poor housekeeping. In fact, more than 95 percent of hours dust mites remain in carpeting, bedding and upholstery after thorough vacuuming. Here are some more facts about dust mites:

• The average dust mite ranges between 0.1 mm and 0.5 mm in size, 7,000 dust mites can fit on a fingernail.

• Dust mites thrive in places with 70-80 percent relative humidity and temperatures between 68 and 84 degrees.

• Dust mites do not carry disease, but their waste becomes airborne, clings to dust particles and causes allergic attacks for up to 30 million allergy-sensitive people. Dust mite allergy causes watery eyes, repetitive sneezing and coughing and is often confused with a common cold.

Virtually no household is dust mite-free. In fact, 90 percent of America's homes are infested, to some degree, with these critters. The question is, how do you know if you're entertaining this uninvited guests? Here are some tell-tale signs:

• If you have lots of wall-to-wall high-piled carpeting. Dust mites love to nest in dark, warm places.

• You have cats, dogs and/or other pets. Where there are pets, there are dust mites.

• Your children have lots of stuffed animals. If so, you have a lot of microscopic critters you didn't bargain for.

• You live in a humid climate.

• You use the fireplace a lot. Fires create lots of airborne dust.

People who live within these conditions, particularly those with the classic allergic symptoms, runny noses, watery eyes, chronic coughs and sneezes, can take steps to eliminate these critters from their environments.

Until now, doctors could only recommend keeping homes as dust free as possible. Not there is an easy to use test (Acarex) that enables consumers to determine the existence of house dust mites in their carpets, mattresses and pillows. There is also a first-ever treatment product, Acarosol, whose active ingredient, benzyl benzoate, has been EPA approved for safe and effective elimination of house dust mites, and their allergy-causing waste, for up to six months.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the Allergy Information Center and Hotline at 1-800-727-5400.

Nothing is quite as inviting as a fireplace in the home

Homeowners have a long-standing love affair with the hearth. They consistently rate the hearth as one of the top five features that add value to their homes. But hearth appliances, such as fireplaces or wood stoves, add more than value to your home. They provide the practical aspects of an efficient heat source.

Traditionally, homeowners associated the heart with open masonry fireplaces. Today, however, a variety of products expand your choices in hearth products, providing effective heaters, as well as fire-viewing ambience and decor enhancement.

Some consumers buy fireplaces or wood stoves for fire-viewing and to add ambience to their homes. Others are more concerned about heat. With this in mind, hearth products are designed for aesthetic appeal and to be installed in a finished and much-used part of the house, so the heat provided is readily available where household members spend much of their time.

In the last several years, wood heat technology has expanded dramatically. One of the ways is in allowing a clear view of the fire, even when the stove doors are closed. According to the Fireside Advisor buyer's guide, several stoves and fireplaces feature overfire airwash systems to keep the glass panels clear of soot and smoke, providing a clear, pleasing view of the fire.

Another area of rapid technological advancement is in cleanburning efficiency. Due to heightened environmental concerns, today's hearth products are much more efficient than their predecessors. By burning the fuel more completely, state-of-the-art wood stoves produce more heat from less wood, saving you money. In addition to heating efficiency and fire-viewing, decor is another important consideration. Many hearth products on the market today are of furniture grade quality, featuring classic architectural lines, such as curved doors and fluted columns.

Hearth products are divided into four categories: parlor stoves, factory-built fireplace systems, fireplace inserts, and freestanding fireplaces.

Parlor stoves: A freestanding wood or coal stove, a parlor stove is not limited to being a heater; it also provides fire-viewing and decor enhancement. Parlor stoves feature attachable screens, so you can open the doors and enjoy the stove as you would an open fireplace. Parlor stoves are available in contemporary and traditional styles, in classic black or one of several bright enamel finishes.

Freestanding fireplace: A free-standing fireplace is a gas or wood burning appliance intended to provide excellent fire-viewing.

Designed to duplicate the function and appearance of a masonry fireplace, but at a fraction of the cost, a free-standing fireplace is characterized by a very large front opening for unobstructed fire-viewing. A freestanding fireplace resembles a masonry fireplace more than a parlor stove and is bought often as a decorative enhancement. Like a masonry fireplace, the freestanding fireplace does not control the air entering the firebox, and as a result, the fire burns with a lively flame at all times.

Fireplace inserts: A fireplace insert is a wood burning product designed to be installed exclusively into a built-to-code masonry fireplace. The fireplace insert turns the inefficient open fireplace into an effective heat source, while retaining the fireplace's aesthetics and charm. Decorative surround panels are available to fill in the space if the insert is not large enough to completely fill the fireplace opening.

Factory-built fireplace systems: A factory-built fireplace system is virtually indistinguishable in appearance from a masonry fireplace, but eliminates the masonry fireplace's two most serious drawbacks: high construction cost and low heat output. Factory-built fireplace systems, consist of a firebox similar to the firebox of a wood stove, surrounded by an installation cabinet, which allows it to be installed close to wood framing. Once the cabinet is framed in, the area around the opening can be finished with a variety of materials, such as marble or tile, for an authentic fireplace appearance. True to the spirit of a masonry fireplace, factory-built fireplaces also have an exceptionally large fire-viewing area.

Masking products save preparation and cleanup time

Your bedroom is your retreat: a very private place, the most personal room of your home. You can let your decorating imagination go here as in no other room, using paint colors and wallpaper to express your innermost feelings and to create a soothing mood.

Your bedroom is also a room that you may want to repaint more frequently than other rooms; it can always benefit from the clean look that a fresh coat of paint provides.

Doing your own painting isn't difficult or tricky. You can make the most of your time by planning your painting carefully and cutting cleanup chores by protecting your belongings.

Check the local hardware or home center store for tools and sundries to help maximize your painting efforts.

Choose high-quality brushes and rollers. The same idea goes for paints, high-quality paints will look good longer and provide better coverage.

Take preparation work seriously. Wash your walls before painting; it helps paint to adhere uniformly.

Preparation also means protecting your furnishings. You'll need to protect carpeting, floors, furniture, windows, and other areas from paint drips.

Your best bet is to stock up on paint masking products that have an advantage over the bedsheets, dropcloths, newspapers and masking tape you've used in the past.

A durable poly dropcloth with a non-marring tape preapplied to one edge which comes in rolls, unfold to either 21 or 43 inches wide, Tape n' Drape's built in static cling keeps it snug against walls, furniture, even ceilings. Because it admits daylight, it can protect windows while letting you see what you're doing.

Heavy furniture can be protected easily. Static cling keeps the dropcloth adhering tightly to bookcases, dressers, or desks.

Baseboards, carpets and floors may be shielded by applying the taped edge to the baseboard and cutting the length required.

Products for the environment

Here is a list of natural products which clean just as effectively and less expensively than brand name cleansers with harmful non-biodegradable chemicals:

White vinegar is good for cleaning windows as well as for washing waxes and pesticides from fruit and vegetables. Butter makes an excellent treatment for leather shoes and boots.

Several tips on how to choose wood flooring

If you've decided that with just a little remodeling your too-small or out-of-style home would be just perfect, you're not alone.

American homeowners are spending well over $80 billion annually to renovate and remodel their homes. For many, the addition of a wood floor is an important part of the project, for both the beauty and the value it adds to their investment.

The renewed interest in wood flooring has prompted wood flooring manufacturers to expand their product offerings, re-introduce previously discontinued products, add contemporary colors to existing lines and develop advanced finishes to make wood floors easy care. In addition, the cost of a wood floor today is very competitive when compared to other flooring options including carpet and vinyl.

With the wide variety of wood flooring products available today, the hardest decision for the home remodeler often is what type of wood flooring to install.

There's no standard answer, it often comes down to a combination of the style of the room or home being remodeled and personal preference.

The most popular wood flooring product continues to be strip oak flooring, which accounts for over 50 percent of the wood flooring installed today. New products featuring four colors including the traditional natural look, plus Nordic, a popular white finish, gives the home remodelers the option of installing this popular floor in an historical restoration or a contemporary setting.

Parquet floors, another style option, have been popular for centuries and complement period rooms as well as today's more contemporary styles.

Parquets tend to be more formal, but again, the updated colors, such as the pastels available mean parquets can go contemporary as well. Many homeowners prefer the patterned look parquet provides.

For homeowners who prefer the linear look of plank, in addition to the 2 1/4-inch wide strip oak flooring, plank products today are available in several widths, ranging from three inches wide up to seven inches wide or wider, in a myriad of colors. When installed using a single width, planks complement almost any interior design style. A random-width installation is often used with historical or early American and colonial styles.

As for species, oak continues to be the most popular, but depending on the product style and color and where the product is being used, home remodelers may choose pine, ash or any number of wood species.

In addition to solid wood parquets and planks, laminated products which can be installed over most sub-floors without the use of nails or adhesives, provide still another option.

Laminated products are an ideal choice for replacing an old vinyl floor in a kitchen.

Home remodelers should consult their local hardwood flooring dealer or contractor when deciding which product to choose.

St. John students get it 'letter perfect'

In conjunction with the kick off of Catholic Schools Week and St. John the Baptist Parish Sesqui-centennial celebration, Sr. Katherine Mary, Principal of St. John the Baptist, read a letter which was sent home to relatives in Germany by N. Frett in 1841. Some of the students acted out the following letter:

We left our wives and children in the city of Chicago and we three (N. Frett, N. Adams and J. Schmitt) went out into the country to look for an opportunity. We found it 30 English miles from Chicago near the village of McHenry where there is an English free school and a house of correction. The village is only three English miles distant from us. There I bought a farm of 160 acres which according to the German measure makes 200 morgen, at $2.50 per acre, in German money 6 marks. The land lies in a good situation and also a beautiful neighborhood.

Also we have very fine meadowland upon which the grass is so high it reaches above my head. This will perhaps seem unbelievable to you but it is true. I would not have believed it myself had I not seen such as are found in Germany and they grow in great masses. Also in the woods the wild lemons (plums) grow in abundance. When we bought the land we hardly know what to say as we glimpsed the splendid fruit and grass.

Nicolaus Adams from Hirten also has as much land as we. Jacob Schmitt of Munck has 60 acres. We took ours all together in one piece. We also bought two oxen that are as heavy as the largest one to be found in Germany; also a double span wagon and a cook machine which is very artfully constructed. One can cook upon four fires at once and at the same time have an oven for baking.

We also bought two cows and a plow besides household gear that one needs on a farm. The oxen cost 40 dollars, the wagon 33 dollars, the stove 22 dollars with the utensils included, the plow 7 dollars, and the two cows 24 dollars. When we get things somewhat arranged we can keep a hundred head of stock on our own place.

Here it is not like in Germany that one must support the cattle with his labor; here the cattle support themselves. They run out day and morning by themselves. Feed is absolutely free. One can make as much hay as he wants and where he wishes without paying for it. Here one knows nothing about taxes. One does not need to worry about beggars as they do in Germany. Every day we thank the dear Lord that he has brought us so to speak out of slavery into paradise. This also I wish from my heart for my dear friends, sisters and brothers, who continue to live in Germany as if under lions and dragons, fearing every moment to be devoured by them.

Costuming in America is similar to that of the best people in Germany. It is particularly handsome in the case of men. One cannot distinguish the farmer from the gentleman; they all stand on the same plane. If a woman should cross the street without a hat she would be laughed at. In New York I bought my wife and daughter Maria a new mantle of American cut. Board in America is also cheap. The common man lives better here than the highest in Germany.

One cannot describe how good it is in America and the many remarkable things to be found here. If one should write about them they would sound too unbelievable.

Letters Home

Richard J. Leseth wrote the following letter in the hopes that people back home would know how the servicemen in the Persian Gulf felt about anti-war protestors.

Leseth, 21, is a 1989 graduate of Antioch High School. He enlisted in the Navy after graduation and served in Japan for several months before being sent to Saudi Arabia where he has served on and off for the last six months. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Leseth of Lindenhurst.

Dear Readers,

I am presently serving in the United States Navy as a Seabee. Before I get started I want to explain what a Seabee is. A Seabee is a construction worker who builds shelters for the navy seals. We also work for the United States air force rebuilding destroyed runways. I would like to say thank you for your support for all of the troops in the Persian Gulf. For you individuals who are against the war in the Gulf I only have one thing to say. There are a great number of us who think that if you can't back the troops who are in the Persian Gulf defending the United States well then you don't deserve to be citizens of the United States. I am very proud to be defending my country.

Sincerely,
BUCA
Richard J. Leseth
U.S. Navy Seabee.

PUBLIC NOTICE NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Variance Hearing for the Property Known as 16 N. Whitney St., Grayslake, Illinois

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held at 7:15 p.m. on Tuesday, March 5, 1991 or as soon thereafter as it can be reached on the agenda in the Grayslake Community Room, 151 Hawley St., Grayslake, Illinois, by the Zoning Board of Appeals of the Village of Grayslake for the purpose of considering granting a variance from the Grayslake Zoning Ordinance, being Ordinance No. 77-0-26, as amended, Section 203 - Lot Area, Yard and Bulk Requirements in all Zones, Table 2, for premises at 16 N. Whitney St., Grayslake, Illinois, to permit no rear yard and 100% structural coverage rather than a rear yard of 30 ft. and 80% structural coverage, as otherwise required for property in the Central Business (CB) District zoning classification representing variations of 30 ft. and 20%.

The premises are more particularly described as: South 19.50 ft. of the North 69.50 of Lot 14 in Block 3 in Grayslake's Original Plat.

Petitioners are Dr. Michael LaPorta and Dr. Terry Selke, owners of the premises.

The petition for variance is on file at the Village Hall, 164 Hawley St., Grayslake, Illinois, and available for public inspection during regular business hours.

All interested persons are invited to attend and will be given an opportunity to be heard.

Film Rev.

Every few years some outstanding film actors and a great director get together and do an upbeat Shakespearean film, bringing the Bard of Avon at his best to the average movie-goer.

Remember the Sir Lawrence Olivier and Richard Burton sojourn's into the Elizabethan era.

This time we have an unlikely Mel ("Lethal Weapon") Gibson playing an engaging and volatile "Hamlet," plus a likely Glenn Close as his "most unusual" mother.

Gibson brings his rack-em, stack-em (bodies that is) energetic interpretation to this melancholy Dane's personality, with an electrifying result.

Close is just short of magnificent as his mother.

The fine cast is rounded out by such well-known and accredited names as Paul Scofield, Alan Bates, Helena Bonham-Carter and Ian Holm.

Just as Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor did in "The Taming of the Shrew," Gibson and Close, under the fine direction of Franco Zeffirelli, bring Shakespeare, 1991 style, to the masses in a way they can understand and enjoy..

This one is by all means rated five out of five stars on the basis of the "new" Gibson and the outstanding story-line, no matter how many centuries old. It still works!

Be There

Cupid's sharpening his arrows and getting ready for his annual hunt for lovers with Valentine's Day just two days away.

Battle of stars at Marriott Theatre

by GLORIA DAVIS

There's a star-studded revue going on at the Marriott Lincolnshire Theatre which brings back many of the singers, dancers, songs and production numbers that, in the last 12 years, made Marriott's musicals a hit.

It has a boffo opening with Kathy Sen-ten as Peter Pan sailing in the air towards the audience singing "Never, Never Land."

Ray Frewen and Mary Ernster then recreate the "Shall We Dance" sequence from the "King and I."

Stealing the show was the "I Want It All" number from "Baby" which has three-star-belters, Senten, Alene Robertson and Suzie McMonagle vying for the belting spotlight.

The extra-added attraction of the "Fatherhood Blues," completes a top segment.

Other cameo standouts are "Tonight," from "West Side Story," which utilizes the familiar tenor voice of Marriott favorite Terry James.

Robertson and Balgord must have been heard all the way to Broadway with their cross-duet, Robertson bringing the house down with "Everything's Coming Up Roses," from her hit in "Gypsy," and Balgord doing a Barbara Streisand number from "Funny Girl," "My Man."

McMonagle has another showstopper in a number from "Chess."

You can't top the finale which was the one that ended "George M" with the entire cast, dressed in red, white and blue, waving flags patriotically.

What more timely a way to end the show than this during the present world situation!

cludes Senten's explosiveness in "Joseph and the Technicolor Dream Coat," "Grease Lightning" from "Grease," "They're Playing Our Song," (title song), and Robertson doing the title song from "Dolly," "Stranger in Paradise," from "Kismet," would have been another good bet as long as James was on hand.

"Don't Cry For Me, Argentina," would have brought "Evita" back to Marriott's stage and this reviewer would have loved seeing the "big foot" dance from "Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?"

But off course we can't all have everything. The numbers that were done were top-notch, but to quote McMonagle, Senten and Robertson, "I want It All."

Patricks be-ribbon Round Lake Beach

by PAT CHRISTENSEN
Lakeland Newspapers

Renee Patrick is trying to channel her children's energies in positive ways, and she thinks she's found the perfect solution.

Patrick has nine children, ranging in age from 18 to 2, and this past weekend she, her husband, John, and her children decided to decorate their neighborhood. Armed with yellow banners and ribbons, the Patricks and their children set out to decorate four Round Lake Beach Parks, and their own street.

"Every tree in the four parks has a ribbon on it, and the whole street of Walnut, starting at Golfview all the way to Oakwood, every single tree has a ribbon on it," Patrick said before her family started their decorating binge, she went to the mayor of Round Lake Beach Carl Schrimpf, and he approved the ribbons. "He thought it was a positive note, that the kids wanted to do something."

The children purchased $25 worth of yellow ribbon and plastic yellow banners at the Ace Hardware Store, which, despite the national shortage of yellow ribbon, had plenty on hand.

The yellow ribbons are in visible support of the troops now serving in the Persian Gulf War. With two sons near enlistment age, Patrick doesn't seem too worried. "You give it some thought, of course. They are very patriotic, as every kids their age is, and they do a lot of thinking."

"My one son, currently 15, wants to be a flyer, and, you know, that does raise some questions. However they all fully believe in our country and they believe what we're doing is right. And that's basically it."

'Their civic pride is coming out. The kids really like to go down the streets and talk to people about tying one (ribbon) on their parkway trees.'
Renee Patrick, resident of Round Lake Beach

Someone in the community apparently does not agree. One of the parks that the Patrick clan decorated was partially undecorated. Half the ribbons that decorated every tree in the park were taken down. "It was a little upsetting when the other half of the park got cut down," Patrick said. "It was their own funds, this was all my kids efforts, so they're upset. Ironically, they wanted to go right out and get more and put them back up."

Apparently the ribbons were taken down by a resident who felt they were in support of the war itself. "Their Dad told the kids that this person has just as much a right to his opinion as they have to theirs, but it would be futile at this point, because this person would just take them down again."

The Patricks especially wanted this particular park decorated, because a local family has a member overseas. But the children plan to go door to door in the near future to ask residents to decorate their own properties.

"It was almost a whole day affair this Saturday," Patrick said of the weekend's project. "We started right around 1:30 p.m., when one of my son's came home from work, and we came home, ate dinner, and then the kids and my husband went back out until about 7 p.m." A friend of one of the children went along in the evening. "He helped out with Morningside," Patrick said. "This young man does have a father over in Saudi Arabia now."

In addition to this friend, the Patricks' ribbon-tying brigade includes John Patrick Sr., Renee, John, Jr., 18; Jamie, 17; Brandon, 15; Jason, 12; Renee, 10; Travis 10; Tracy, 6; and the two-year old twins, Ashley and Courtney.

"Everybody went out this Saturday, even the twins," said their proud mother. "Their civic pride is coming out. The kids really like to go down the streets and talk to people about tying one (ribbon) on their parkway trees. On our street, Walnut, everybody said 'go ahead and do it,' so we did. Also on a side street, Morningside, from Walnut to Fairfield, we put yellow ribbon on the trees, the stop signs, the telephone poles, everywhere."

The residents response, Patrick said, has been very positive so far. "I would hope that the more people they talk to, trying to get other streets to do this, that they will get a positive reaction. If they get a negative reaction, it would affect their ribbon-tying, although they would probably keep going."

The Patricks have two and a half rolls of yellow ribbon left, and they intend to keep up the effort, "hopefully, until we run out of ribbons, or spirit."

"I think," Patrick added, "they're going to run out of ribbons first."

Name Vernon Hills girl one of 12 most beautiful

by GLORIA DAVIS
Lakeland Newspapers

"Beauty is as Beauty does," is an old saying evidently believed in by the powers that be at the Women's Tempo Section of the Chicago Tribune who have just named the 12 "Most Beautiful Women" in the Chicagoland area, based mainly on their contributions to making the area a better place.

The youngest of these 12 "women" is Heather Kaplan of Vernon Hills who, although she may be just 12 years old, is already busy carving a philanthropic spot for herself.

She was named one of this elite dozen after founding the Silver Lining Fund.

This fund purchases toys for children undergoing painful medical procedures such as chemotherapy at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago.

Heather herself, once at patient at

Heather Kaplan

Children's Memorial, learned first hand about the help and comfort that toys bring to children in the hospital.

Orchestra, chorus performs Mozart

Under the baton of Don Horisberger, the Waukegan Symphony Orchestra and Chorus will perform selected Mozart arias and Brahms' "A German Requiem" on Saturday, Feb. 16 at 8 p.m. at West High School, 2325 Brookside Ave. in Waukegan.

Guest artists joining them are soprano, Donna A. Deam and baritone, Thomas L. Potter. Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for students, senior and military and are available at the door, the WSOC office in Bowen Park in Waukegan or by calling (708)360-4742.

The first half of the program includes arias from several of Mozart's favorite operas performed by Deam and Potter accompanied by the orchestra. These include "The Marriage of Figaro", "Don Giovanni", "Il Re pastore", and "The Magic Flute".

The Waukegan Symphony Orchestra and Chorus are supported by the Waukegan Park Dist. Programs are partially supported by the Illinois Arts Council, a state agency, the National Endowment for the Arts, the City of Waukegan and the Lake County Arts Council.

Bermuda - Home of Pink Beaches, World Class Golf and More!

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Let's start with a quick geography lesson. Bermuda is not in the Caribbean nor is it part of the Bahama Islands. You find this island jewel in the Atlantic Ocean just 600 miles off the coast of North Carolina.

Ringed by an underseas wall of coral (which caused the demise of many early explorers), Bermuda is warmed by the Gulf Stream. With miles of pink sand beaches, romantic hidden coves and water the color of liquid sapphire, Bermuda is a sun-lover's paradise.

But Bermuda offers so much more.

What appeals to me most is Bermuda's variety of accommodations and the obvious concern for retaining the natural beauty of the island before allowing any building.

Rather than an overpowering super resort, I'd recommend Bermuda's quaint guesthouses where you will be treated like a long-time friend by the proprietors.

Or maybe you would prefer to rent an enchanting cottage hidden away on the manicured grounds of a glorious Bermuda estate which could include its own private beach.

If golf is your game, Bermuda offers more courses per square mile than any other country in the world! Spend a week in Bermuda and you can play a different course every day and still not play them all. You will rarely find a long wait on any tee or players pressing you from behind (that's just not very British!)

Speaking of the Bermuda's British ways, you will find it a very clean, and very "proper" island nation. Bathing suits, abbreviated tops, and bare feet are only acceptable at the beach. In fact, it's against the law for anyone to appear in public without a shirt. Most restaurants require gentlemen to wear a jacket and often a tie in the evening.

Bermuda is a shopper's paradise with prices often 40% below shops in the U.S. and no sales tax! Best buys are on timepieces, gold jewelry, crystal, china and cashmere.

If you prefer to stay closer to home this year, remember Bermuda is closer than Las Vegas.

- 4 medium apples, unpeeled, cored and diced
- 1/4 cup diced celery
- 1/4 cup chopped walnuts

In a medium bowl, combine mayonnaise, yogurt and vinegar. Mix until blended. Add apples, celery and walnuts and mix until well combined. Chill thoroughly.

Cranberry bread

- 2 cups whole wheat flour
- 1/2 cup wheat germ
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 2 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. baking soda
- zest of one grated orange
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/2 cup oil
- 1/4 cup warm water
- 2 cups cranberries, chopped

In a large bowl, mix the first five ingredients. Set aside.

In a separate bowl beat together orange zest, orange juice, oil and water. Stir into dry ingredients. Add cranberries and mix well. Pour batter into a 9x5x3-inch loaf pan sprayed with vegetable cooking spray. Bake at 350 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes. Remove bread from pan and place on wire rack to cool. Bread slices better the second day.

Makes 16 slices.

Gingerbread

- 1/2 cup low-fat milk
- 2 tsp. cider vinegar
- vegetable oil spray
- 3/4 cup light molasses
- 1/2 cup acceptable vegetable oil
- 1 egg white
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 cup whole-wheat flour
- 1 tsp. ground ginger
- 1/2 tsp. baking soda
- 1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1/4 cup raisins

Combine milk and vinegar and allow to stand 10 minutes. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly spray a 9-inch square baking pan with vegetable oil spray. Place prepared milk, molasses, oil and egg white in a mixing bowl. Beat until blended. In a medium bowl, combine flours, ginger, baking soda and cinnamon. Add flour mixture to liquid mixture. Mix until evenly distributed.

Cast of 'U-Raq, I Break'

Second City ventures into 'U-Raq, I Break'

by TOM WITOM

"U-Raq, I Break," Second City Northwest's sixth revue, is an amalgam of the topical humor that has never failed to lift the spirits of its loyal audiences.

But this latest outing lacks some of the spunk and a few of the touchstone targets (i.e., organized religion, national politics) of past productions, but the six-member cast brings its own special gifts. And when they're good, they're very good.

A gem comes at the finale, "Forest Wonderland," a terrific satirical putdown on how thoughtless modern man desecrates the environment to the detriment of wild animals, dumping oil into its seas and discarding plastic packaging helter-skelter.

The "humor" directed at the current Gulf war is handled well. One brief skit slams the media, covering the bombings from cushy hotel rooms. Another zany bit, "Video," has a family taping its greetings to a daughter at the front—and sharing all sorts of disconcerting news from the home base.

David Razowsky, a Second City Northwest veteran, is his nutty self, and fares well in a clever "Happy Birthday" bit.

But Jackie Hoffman seems to run hot and cold, not always connecting with her audience: on target as a hypochondriac but off base as a social worker in "Sharing."

"Fantasy," in which everyone fantasizes about someone else, is a clever opener to Act Two of the 90-minute show. And after watching the cast in the erotic "Grocery Store," shopping will never be the same!

"U-Raq, I Break," directed by Mick Napier, is great fun despite a few rough spots. For ticket information: (708)806-1555.

CLC sets Berry concert

Comedian Bertice Berry, a stand-out stand-up comic, who has been called the Doctor of Comedy, will perform in concert at auditorium, 19351 W. Washington St., Grayslake.

Berry is described as a scholar and comic who delivers a serious message. This gifted lecturer/speaker and former Kent State University in Kent, Ohio.

Using comedy as a tool, Berry has entertained and educated audiences across the United States and Canada to better understand, respect and love one another regardless of sex, color and race. Her ability to combine academics and humor will explain why she is called the Bill Cosby of sociology and the Doctor of Comedy.

The concert, sponsored by the CLC student activities office, is one of the activities planned during National Community College Month.

Tickets are $4 general admission and $2 CLC students and alumni. Advanced reservations may be made by calling the ticket box office, (708)223-6601, ext.

300, or stop in room C101. Payments may be made by Visa, MasterCard or Discover. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Johnson in concert

Missouri fiddler Vesta Johnson joins Chinese musician Ji Qiu Min for a special concert at 8 p.m., Friday, March 1, at the Libertyville High School Studio Theatre, 708 W. Park Av., Libertyville.

Also appearing will be Ji Qiu Min. Currently a student in the United States, Ji Qiu Min is a well known erhu player in her native China. Twice she won first prize in the municipal level Chinese music performing competitions in China. The erhu is a two stringed violin-like instrument with a wonderfully expressive range of sounds and moods. Ms. Min will play a program of traditional erhu pieces.

Admission to the program is $6 for adults, $4 for Center members, $3 for seniors and children 5-15, and free for children 4 and under. Tickets will be available at the door. The doors open 30 minutes before the scheduled curtain time.

This program is the second in the new "In the Tradition" series presented by the David Adler Cultural Center, with support from Baxter Healthcare Corp., the National Endowment for Arts and by the Illinois Arts Council, a state agency.

The David Adler Cultural Center is a non-profit organization which sponsors cultural arts and humanities programs for individuals of all ages. For information on this and other programs call: (708)367-0707.

MILAN

FLOOR PLAN

OVERALL DIMENSIONS: 60'-0" X 50'-0"
LIVING: 1902 square feet
GARAGE: 538 square feet

MILAN (209-54)
By Landmark Designs, Inc.

A huge, sky-lit, high-ceilinged family room/kitchen combination acts as a magnet in the Milan, attracting family and friends. The home's traditional exterior gives no clue to the creative use of odd angles within.

Even though the uniquely-shaped family room is located directly in front of the entryway, the cultured brick wall that backs a woodstove blocks the view into the family room. Thus, formal guests can be channeled into the living room, to the right, then into the dining room at the left, without ever being exposed to the lived-in look sure to prevail in the family room.

The brick wall serves yet another purpose. It increases energy efficiency by absorbing and holding heat from the woodstove, then radiating it back into the room long after the fire dies out.

There's no need for the cooks or clean-up crew to be cut off from activities in the family room. The kitchen is visually open to the family room and has an eating nook located at the juncture of the two areas. Sinks are placed in a counter that faces into the family room. A triangular-shaped step-in pantry is next to the nook, and the nearby sliding glass doors provide easy access to the deck, allowing outdoor dining when the weather permits.

Bedrooms and a utility room are conveniently close to the kitchen. The master suite is at the opposite end of the home, for increased privacy. It has a vaulted ceiling and a long, dog-leg shaped walk-in closet. The master bath has twin vanities and a huge five-sided custom shower.

For a study plan of the MILAN (209-54), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering). Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

Church Talk

Wauconda

Transfiguration Church in Wauconda will be conducting classes entitled, "Church Beginnings for the 90's and Beyond," beginning in February and ending in July. The six monthly meetings are designed as a guide for Catholics who want to know where the church is going in the future and how it relates to their lifestyles.

The first meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 21 in the Transfiguration parish hall. The program is "The Mission of Jesus and the Mission of the Church."

The featured speaker will be Carole Eipers from the archdiocesan office of religious education. Eipers has a Master of Pastoral Studies from Loyola Univ. and a Doctor of Ministry degree from the Graduate Theological Foundation. She has been associated with the Archdiocese of Chicago for the last 20 years as a teacher, Dir. of Religious Education, youth minister and Pastoral Associate.

Subsequent topics will include Models of Church, Gift of Self, Prayer, Leadership Skills and Discernment and Consensus. Information regarding these meetings will be released each month.

Lindenhurst

Liberty Community Church, an Evangelical Protestant Church meets at B.J. Hooper School, 2400 Sand Lake Rd. Bible sharing classes are offered for ages two through adults and nursery care will be provided for the infants. Worship service begins at 10:30 a.m. and ends each week with a time of refreshments and fellowship. Members of Liberty Community Church will be committing themselves to a series of spiritual disciplines during the upcoming Lenten season. Led by Pastor Doug LaBelle, the Spiritual Adventure is titled "50 Days to Welcome Christ to our Church." The adventure is sponsored by the national radio broadcast "Chapel of the Air" and will run now through March 31. Participants in the program will commit themselves to follow five basic disciplines of the Christian faith for the entire 50 days. Since it takes about 21 days to form a habit, the program is designed to give participants opportunity to make progress in their Christian life and measure their spiritual growth. On Sunday, Feb. 17, pastor's message will be "Loving Incognito" Matthew 5:43-6:4. This is the 50-Day Adventure week two.

Wrestlers use various means to gain state bids

What do you get when one considers a wrestler with a little less publicity than last year, some new techniques, a powerful brotherly duo and a program with a strong history?

Those were the ingredients area wrestler used to gain berths in the state meet Friday, Feb. 15 and Saturday, Feb. 16 at the University of Illinois, Champaign.

Carmel, Libertyville, Lake Zurich Round Lake, Grayslake, Warren, Johnsburg all had qualifiers finish in the top three of weight classes at the Barrington sectional meet.

The first qualifier was an underclassman who has been out of the headlines this year. "I have not gotten as much publicity as last year, and I think that helped," Carmel's Derrick Noble said. Noble pinned Round Lake's Ray Deatherage in 2:34 to gain first at 112 pounds. Noble, a sophomore, qualified for the state meet last year.

"He is wrestling real well now. I think the loss at conference (East Suburban Catholic) may have helped him more than hurt him," Carmel Coach Joe Scordino said.

"I try and get the match over with as quickly as possible, but I know I can't pin every opponent," Noble said.

Noble came into the meet with a 29-1-1 record. A North Chicago resident, Noble got his start in wrestling in native Ohio. His sister's brother taught him the fundamentals and he got his first taste of competitive wrestling at a YMCA.

Mike Baumann became the first of three sectional champs from Libertyville, as he won a 6-4 decision over Justin Zdeb of Round Lake. The win kept Baumann's perfect record in tact. "He is very dedicated and is a very conscientious competitor," Libertyville Coach Dale Eggart said of Baumann, on his third season with the varsity.

The Wildcats other titles came in the upper weight classes. Mike Lester downed James Christopher of Warren 5-2 and Matt Christensen downed Matt Rueckemann of Dundee-Crown 6-0 at heavyweight.

Brett Fahrner at 140 pounds downed Johnsburg's Dave Mendlik and Ian Berger downed Barrington's Craig Esko 5-2 at 171 pounds.

For Lake Zurich's Strobl, the battle turned into a familiar one for the 160 pound title. Strobl and Brian Pollack had met the week before, with Strobl winning.

"I thought we were even last week; this week, I thought I had a little edge," Strobl said after his 7-4 win.

Antioch's highlight was championships won by the Lehns, Tim and Tom. Tim won at 145 with a 2-1 decision over Waukegan's Darryl Cecil.

Tom Lehn was wrestling in a different weight class at 171 pounds, but he beat Warren's Paul McKissick 8-3. "He was at 189, but he carries 171 well," Antioch Coach Ted DeRousse said.

Chris Tointon of Antioch qualified with a 3-0 win over Jim Edwards of Johnsburg in a third-place match at 112 pounds.

Johnsburg's Chris Jankowski downed rival Derek Pijut of Lake Zurich 5-4 to give the area three qualifiers at 189.

In third place battles, near misses to the state meet included: Greg Zalapi of Antioch losing to Fred Fitzpatrick of Crystal Lake South 3-1 at 103; Jamil Swift of Carmel fell 5-4 to Ryan Greene of Lake forest at 130; Rob Torres of Johnsburg lost 11-3 to Brian Klaslo of Fremd and Jim Brophy of Carmel lost 4-2 to Rhet Skol of Cary-Grove.

Warren waves past Pats' threat, claims regional

There were just over 90 seconds left in the game when it started.

A pair of Warren Twp. High School girls basketball fans began running up and down the Blue Devil side of the stands, encouraging Warren faithful to participate in the wave.

For Warren had just survived a third-quarter scare against Stevenson, eventually waving way the Patriots' season with a 47-38 win. The victory advanced Warren to the sectional round at Round Lake.

"I just realized how close we came to losing it," Warren's Patty Geroulis said after her team had won its fifth straight regional title.

Balanced scoring and rebounding are two tried and true methods to Warren's success over the years, and this contest was no exception. Warren outrebounded the Pats 40-25 as Marnie Rettig had 11, Geroulis eight and Aimee Geiger and seven apiece.

"Patty has become a force since Jasmine Strange went down (with a knee injury)," Warren Coach Bruce Campbell said of Geroulis, who had 14 points to share scoring honors with Brandt.

The contest pitted two league rivals who probably will not be inviting each other out to lunch. Warren has gained some key wins over the last two years at Stevenson's expense. The Blue Devils secured their league title last year at Stevenson and the first-round win, 51-39, represented Campbell's 200th win. And there was even a skirmish in a junior varsity game, won by Stevenson in triple overtime. The Blue Devils looked like they would settle this one early, taking a 20-6 lead after one quarter. Warren had downed Stevenson 64-35 in the regular season finale.

"We got back into the game when we started to score off the transition. For a while, they (Warren) were playing not to lose," Stevenson Coach Phil Raffaelli said.

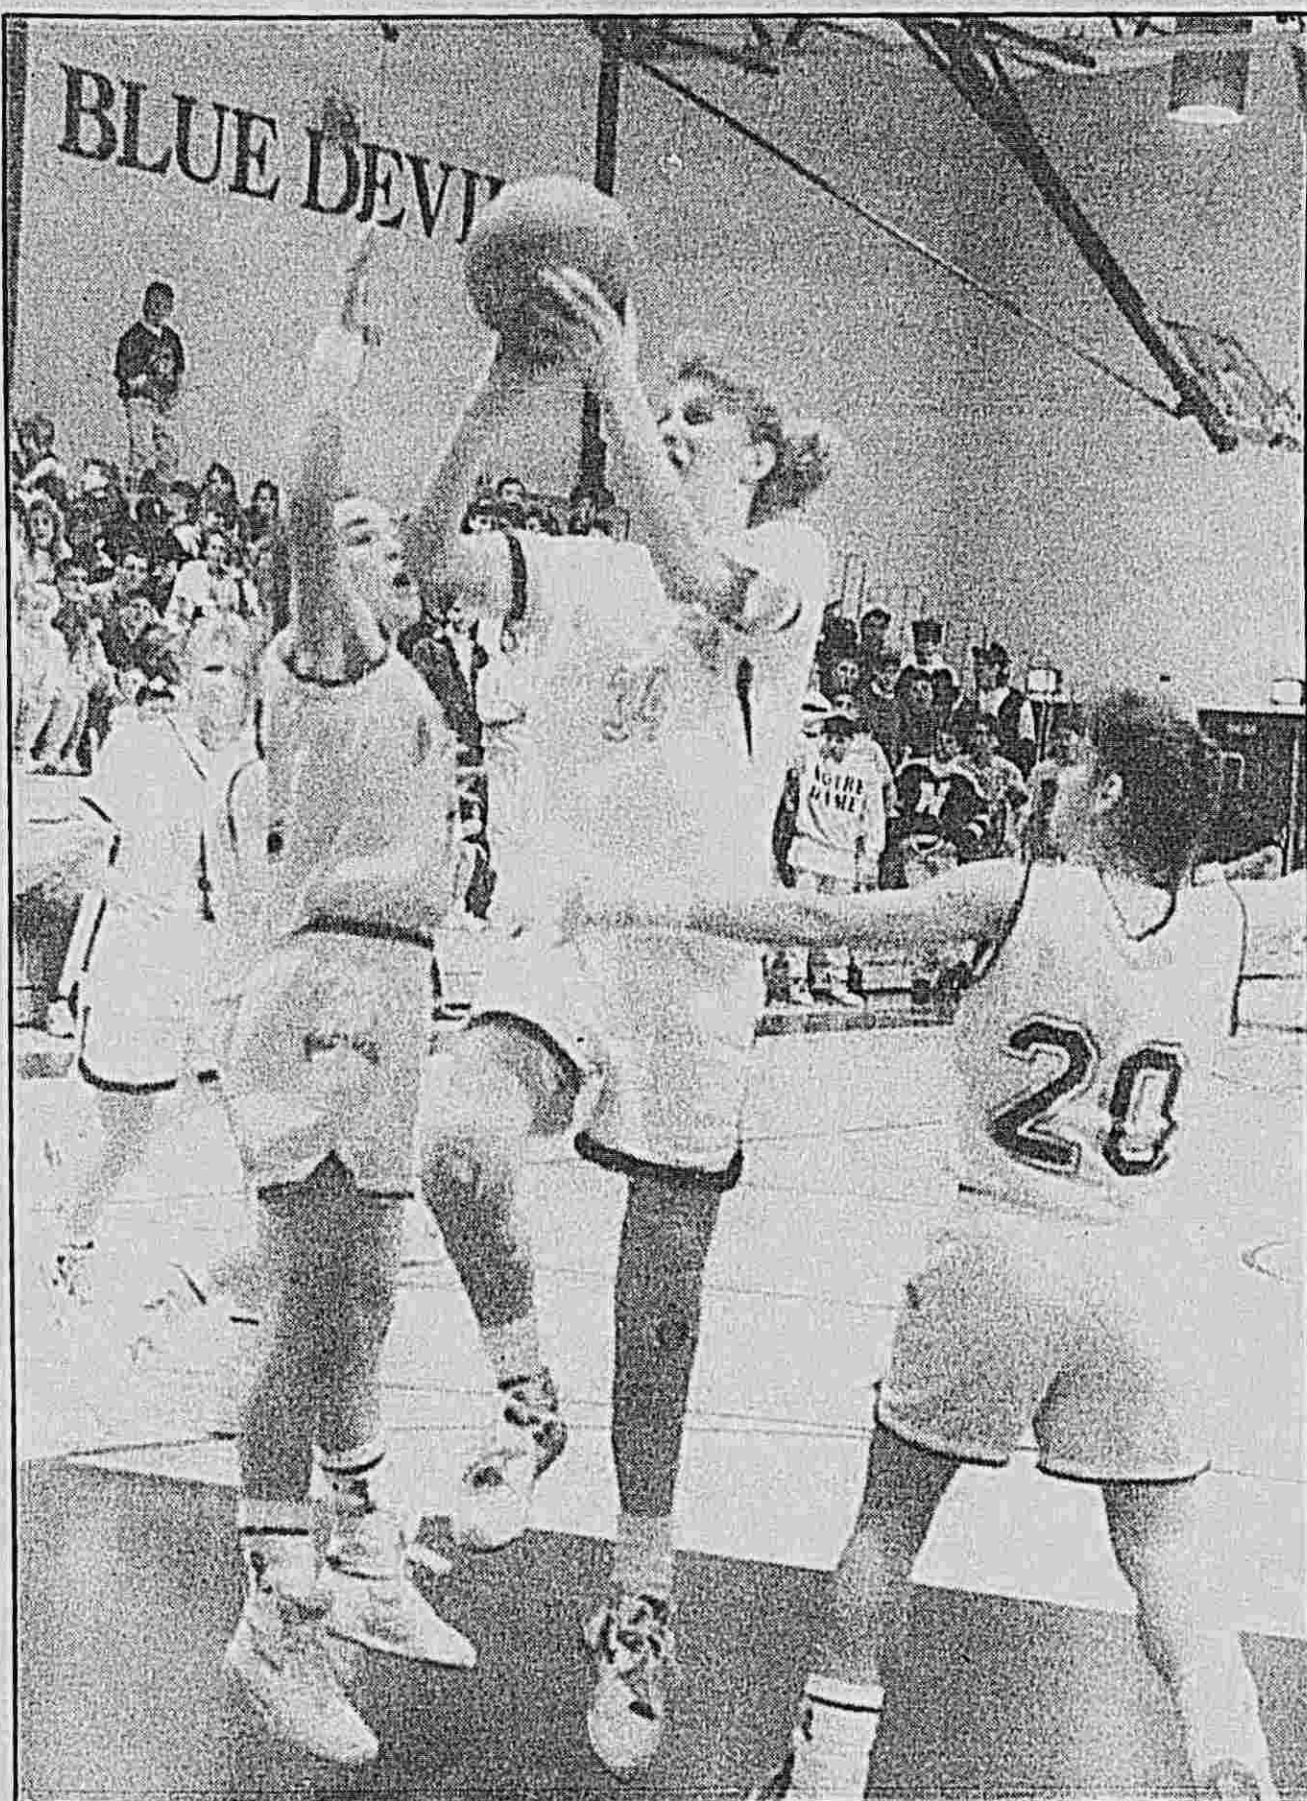

Stevenson trailed by 10 at halftime, but a Courtney DeBolt basket brought the visitors to within four at 35-31. Stevenson, though, could not get over the hump, as the Pats committed turnovers the next two times down the court. Warren built its lead back up to nine, 40-31, as Geroulis tipped a rebound in at the buzzer to end the third quarter.

DeBolt led the Pats, who finished the season with a 13-14 record, with 14 points.

Sharp cutter

Warren's Monica Brandt cuts another string from the net at Warren Twp. High School. Brandt and the Blue Devils enjoyed their fifth straight regional title with a 47-38 win over Stevenson.

Splitting the defense

Warren's Aimee Geiger gets past Stevenson's Courtney DeBolt (12) and Robyn Osterman (20) en route to two points. Warren downed Patriots 47-38 to claim fifth straight regional championship. Warren then downed Zion-Benton 52-40 to gain spot in sectional final. - Photo by Steve Peterson.

NSC watchers to focus on Warren, Pats clash

Warren attack features balance

And now there are two.

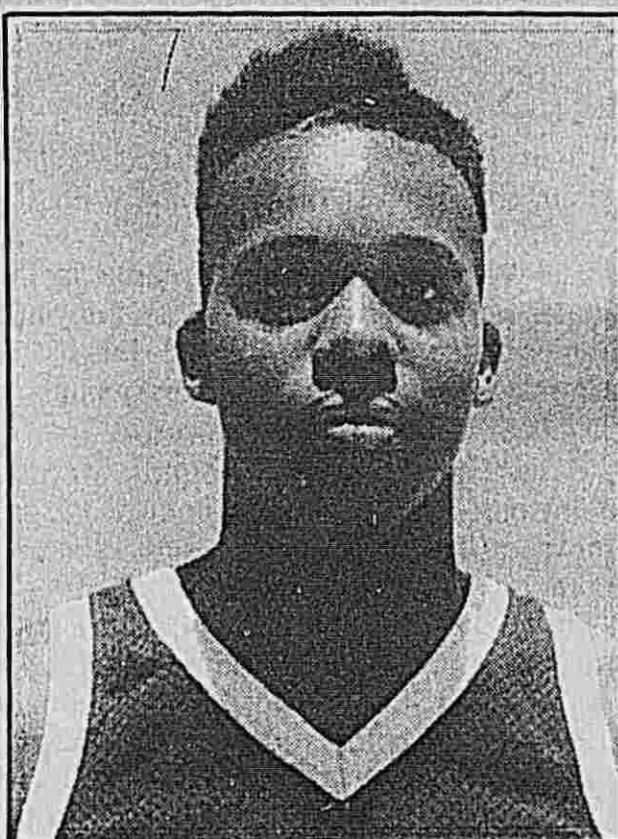

Libertyville was eliminated from the title chase with losses to co-leaders Stevenson and Warren last weekend. The Blue Devils and Patriots are both 14-2 in NSC play.

"They are a very well-rounded team. They are 21-2, what more can you say," Warren Coach Darrel Bader said of Stevenson.

Both teams have to guard against putting too much emphasis on each other as they both have NSC games Feb. 15. Stevenson battles Fenton while Warren hosts Lake Forest.

The expected showdown game is set for Feb. 19 at Stevenson with a 7:30 p.m. tipoff.

Stevenson clubbed Libertyville 78-54 in a showdown Friday, then outlasted Lake Forest with an 85-67 win. Stevenson's Chris Coleman led the way with 31 points as the Patriots stormed to a 54 point second half after leading only by one at halftime.

Ian Whittington

Steve Karolewicz

For Warren, the Blue Devils worked their come-from-behind magic against Libertyville for the second time in two years. They trailed by as many as 14 points against the Wildcats, now 17-6, 12-4 in the NSC. And even as late as five minutes to go, Warren trailed by 10.

"We played a lot better defense and made it difficult for them to shoot and pass the ball. Craig (Shelton) was just outstanding," Bader said.

Warren's Ian Whittington was in foul trouble and the Wildcats were shutting down the vaunted Warren outside attack, so the Blue Devils had to look elsewhere inside. Warren's sharpshooter, Steve Karolewicz, was held to two points.

"All three big guys produced at different times," Bader said.

Whittington had 13 points to lead Warren while Ben Bongratz had 10 points, including a couple of clutch shots in the final quarter.

Warren enjoyed a laugh the night before, downing Zion-Benton 92-35.

Stevenson set to prove it has earned NSC title

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

A respect but not a fear for the past is the way the Stevenson Patriots are heading into a possible showdown for the North Suburban Conference title against Warren Feb. 19.

Stevenson, which faces Fenton Feb. 15, lost to Warren in Gurnee in the first round, but because the Blue Devils then were upset by North Chicago, the race was back on.

Both teams enter the final weekend of the regular season at 14-2 and have several weapons.

Although leading scorer Chris Coleman and Eric Roth have been pacing Stevenson, the Pats can also hurt opponents with steady guard play from Boomer Whipple and Ronnie Smith.

"Smith was not a regular as a junior, but he has come in and filled in the guard spot and played well offensively and defensively," Stevenson Coach Ken Johnson said.

Johnson said Smith, a 6-1 senior, adds both to the outside as well as inside attack of the Pats.

"We're really pleased with what he has done. He has worked real hard on defense and improved on offense. He is our leading assists man," Johnson said of Whipple, also a senior.

Coleman comes into the final weekend averaging 22 points a game while Roth is at 15.

"Chris has his big games and his games when he only scores 10, 11 or 12 points. In those games, he dishes off to other players. No one on our team goes out there looking to see how many points he can get," Johnson said.

Stevenson racked up two more wins, downing Libertyville then struggling in the first half to a 31-30 lead over Lake Forest. The Pats then put the Scouts in their place with a strong third quarter.

"The tempo of the game picked up for both teams," Johnson said of the second half. Coleman topped his average with 31 points, all but 10 in the second half. Roth had 16, Smith 12 and Whipple 11.

CLC men seek .500 in league

This season has been a struggle for the College of Lake County's men's basketball team, but the Lancers still have something to shoot for as the season winds down.

The Lancers are going for a .500 Skyway Conference record as they are at McHenry Feb. 14 and host Waubesa Feb. 19. Game times are 7 p.m.

The Lancers fell to Oakton for the third time this year, 84-81, on Tuesday. Corey Statham led the Lancers with 23 points and Markus Zackery had 17.

"The game was a see-saw contest all the way through but Oakton got a lead with two to three minutes to go," CLC Coach Bruce Smith said.

CLC tried to get a three-point shot off to tie the game and send it into overtime, but the pass went out-of-bounds.

A bright spot for the Lancers was the play of Ken Mattson. The freshman graduate of Antioch scored nine points.

CLC fell to 5-20 overall, 4-6 in the Skyway Conference with the loss.

CLC was edged by Truman earlier last week, 99-93. Zackery and Statham led the way, scoring 33 and 28 points, respectively. Jeff Becker also reached double figures, with 10 points. Zackery also had 10 rebounds and eight assists.

The game was close throughout, as CLC trailed 39-37 at halftime.

CLC was outrebounded by Truman 23-123 in the second half, as Truman pulled out the league win in the game's final minute. Duron Hebron, a sophomore, hit the key free throws for the winners.

The Lancers did enjoy a win when they knocked off Morton in league play 95-85. Ryan Coskey scored 26 points, including four three-pointers, to lead the winners. Statham had 21, Zackery 15.

CLC took charge in the first half, leading 49-35 at halftime. The margin grew to 16 points in the second half, but Morton rallied.

Are you a compulsive overeater? Strategies to help control overeating

Feb. 27, 1991 7-8 p.m.

Presented by Mary Speno, Ph.D.

Lake-Cook Psychologists

Staff Psychologist, Saint Therese Medical Center

If people only ate when they were truly "hungry," there would clearly be fewer who struggle with weight control problems. But people eat for many reasons other than to satisfy nutritional needs: depression, anxiety, boredom or simply to celebrate special events. Sometimes these eating habits become so automatic that they are difficult to control, resulting in weight control problems and related health risks.

Dr. Speno is a clinical psychologist who has helped many individuals develop greater understanding and control of their compulsive eating patterns. This presentation will offer practical strategies everyone can use to develop more healthy eating patterns.

Momentum priority as NWSC leaders to clash

What looked like for certain a showdown for first place may not happen when Round Lake entertains Marengo Feb. 15.

The Panthers battled Johnsburg two days earlier and were seeking to lock up the Northwest Suburban Conference title. Round Lake enters the week at 11-0, two games ahead of Marengo at 9-2. That is because the Indians were upset Saturday, losing to Marian Central 71-67.

The Panthers express, though, kept rolling along, despite some shaky moments early against Lake Zurich.

"We played awfully well in the second half," Round Lake Coach Bob Ward said of the 72-47 win over Lake Zurich.

The Panthers went on a 13-3 run in that stanza, allowing Lake Zurich only a three-point basket. That built the led to 42-27.

Wally Illg led Round Lake with 17 points, including three of his famous three-pointers. Also contributing to the Round Lake cause were Mike Bragg with 13 points, Pat Lejman with 12. Adam Tesch and Dave Burton had nine each.

Rob Grisamore and Jeff Newman had 10 points each for the Bears. Lake Zurich lost a non-conference contest at Hampshire Saturday night.

Elsewhere in the NWSC as the race winds down, contests featured an expected blowout and an overtime thriller.

Grant fell 78-76 at home to Marian Central in the overtime contest after leading in the early going.

MC forced a tie at 69-all, then outscored the Bulldogs 9-7 in the extra session. Damien Vela led Grant with 18 points, Rich Twarowski had 17 and Jason Amedio had 16.

Grant is at Johnsburg Feb. 15.

The win all but secures third place for Marian Central as Johnsburg and Wauconda both lost.

Wauconda, which battles Marian Central Feb. 15, gave Marengo a battle for a portion of the opening quarter, leading early. But Marengo's 20-7 run in the third quarter settled the issue. George Roberts led Marengo with 12 points and Scott Suhr had nine. Wauconda dropped to 8-15 overall, 4-9 in the NWSC.

Grabbing rebound

Johnsburg's Rick Van Every pulls down a rebound in Northwest Suburban Conference game against Grayslake. Rams' Steve Hamil (40) and Nate Roberts (44) get ready to get back on defense. Rams won 70-65.

CLC women shooting for third in Skyway race

Truman and Elgin may be battling for first place in the Skyway Conference women's basketball race, but the College of Lake County is still holding out hope for third.

The Lancers are in a battle with Oakton and McHenry for the third spot. The took a step toward that finish with a 53-50 win over Oakton Tuesday.

Caryn Alexander scored 25 points and Sue Spiller had 11 for the Lancers. "We switched our defense in the second half and did an excellent job of taking to the defensive boards," CLC Coach Don Zeman said.

CLC trailed 23-20 at halftime but went on an 11-2 run to take the lead in the second half. Oakton tied the game with 1:20 left, but Spiller hit a clutch three-point shot to regain the lead at 51-50. CLC then had two free throws.

CLC improved to 10-13 overall, 5-4 in the Skyway Conference with the win.

The Lancers were coming off a 77-67 loss to co-leader Truman. Alexander had 31 points to lead the home team.

CLC stayed close to Truman in the first half, as the Falcons never led by more than four. CLC gained a 24-21 lead on a basket by Kim Kirchherr, but Truman rallied for a seven-point lead. CLC erased that on a three-pointer by Jessica Elsner, but Truman led 39-37 at halftime.

CLC gained a five-point lead in the second half on a free throw and layup by Rachel Smith who had 12 points.

Truman gained the lead for good at 62-61 on a shot by Daphne Walker, who had 38 points.

But Truman outscored CLC 9-4 in the final four minutes as the Lancers had turnover and rebounding trouble.

"Walker had 38 points, but we stymied everyone else on the team. We were a little overaggressive in helping each other out," Zeman said.

Elsner contributed 12 points against the Falcons.

CLC had downed Kennedy-King in a non-conference game and Morton in Skyway play.

Against Morton, Alexander had 21 points but the Lancers had a balanced attack. Smith had 13, and Gina DeGrazia and Elsner each had 10. CLC led 27-25 at halftime, then opened the lead to a 63-54 win.

Kennedy-King proved to be no contest for the Lancers. CLC led by five at halftime, then enjoyed a 39-13 run in the second half for a 57-27 win. Elsner had 12 points, Spiller 11 and Alexander and Smith had 10 each.

CLC fell to co-leader Elgin 67-54 in an away game. Alexander had 17 and Kelly Doyle 16 points and 13 rebounds. for the Lancers. Elsner dished out eight assists.

Rebound clash

Libertyville's Lis Brickert (54) outbattles Carmel's Carolyn Curley (12) and Vicki Pecaro (34) for a rebound. Libertyville used its height to get past Carmel, 61-54. Libertyville advanced to Round Lake sectional final to battle Warren Feb. 14. That winner qualifies for the Sweet Sixteen, playing in the Maine South supersectional Feb. 18. - Photo by Steve Young.

Skyhawks shoot to knock off a powerhouse

Johnsburg's wrestling team will be seeking the next step in statewide respectability when the Skyhawks battle Libertyville in the team sectional round Feb. 19 at Palatine.

The Skyhawks earned the bid with a 40-20 win in the team regional championship, downing Dundee-Crown. Libertyville shutout Highland Park 69-0 in its regional final.

The match at Palatine could boil down to the number of points the Skyhawks achieve in the lower weight classes.

"What kills us against Libertyville is the last three weight classes," Johnsburg Coach Jim Briscoe said.

Libertyville downed

Johnsburg earlier in the year, the day the Skyhawks upset Class A power Harvard. Johnsburg is the smallest school in the state in Class AA, while Libertyville is a traditional wrestling power, and is sending five individuals to the state individual meet.

The performance of a freshman keyed the match against the Chargers.

Scott Bierman won the 135 pound title over Herb Blankenship, winning in a pin in 1:35. Blankenship came into the match with 32 wins.

Johnsburg's Jesse Waldeck earned a technical fall at 103 pounds, but Jim Edwards lost at 112 in the first two matches against D-C.

After a Dundee-Crown win at 119, Duane Schwaubauer earned an 8-3 decision over Jason Serpien on a technical fall.

D-C won the next class at 130 pounds, setting up Bierman's win. Dave Menlik also won, a narrow 7-6 decision over Jose Tinjaro.

After a D-C win at 145, Johnsburg dominated the middle weights. Scott Malecki won at 152, Pat Sperry won at 160 and Jim Amos won by a pin at 171.

Chris Jankowski, who would go on to qualify for the state individual finals at sectionals, won on a pin over Juston Helminski to sealk the win.

D-C's Matt Rueckman pinned Don Kibbe at heavyweight.

Richmond ready for tournament

Gardner and Billy Krumpen had 15 points each to lead a balanced attack. Chad Komar led the team in rebounding with 17. "He did not score any points, but he did a nice job of controlling the boards," Brunswick said of Komar.

The Saturday night game was no contest with Cary, although it was a family reunion of sorts.

Brunswick coached Cary-Grove mentor Dave Otto in Otto's first two seasons as a player for Richmond.

Richmond's assistant coach, Ron Duros, coached Cary's assistant, Dave Sargent, during Sargent's football career at Cathage.

"I feel bad for Dave because he is an up-and-coming young coach," Brunswick said.

Richmond was led by Gardner's 24 points, Ray Wilkenson added 16, while Krumpen added 15.

"We were able to play the substitutes by the end of the first half," Brunswick said. He praised the work of the second team, noting the team never lost stride.

Richmond continued its domination of rebounds, winning that important statistic 43-30. "Rebounds have been a strength for us all year. We are averaging 38 rebounds to our opponents' 30," Brunswick said.

But it is that other statistic - 53 percent from the free-throw line, which kept Richmond from a few more wins.

Man shoots self after argument, police chase

An afternoon-long argument between a Missouri man and his former wife ended in a chase and a shooting incident in North Chicago.

Lake County Sheriff Clint Grinnell said the incident began when Robert Guyton, age 21, of Kansas City, Mo., began calling his estranged wife, Dawn Elaine Sprouse.

The incident ended when Guyton shot himself in the left side of the head. He died at 10:30 a.m. Monday at St. Therese Medical Center.

"I am pleased that the officers were able to show the level of restraint they did," Grinnell said.

Sprouse then contacted the Great Lakes police, but the phone calls from Guyton continued into the afternoon. He then told her to meet him at the Blue Moon restaurant, located off Rte. 41 in North Chicago.

Great Lakes and North Chicago police accompanied Sprouse to the restaurant, and their vehicles blocked in Guyton's pick-up truck, which was stolen from his sister in Georgia. "The cars were damaged quite heavily. He shot the tires and the radiator and maneuvered until he could get his truck free," Grinnell said.

Guyton went seventenths of a mile before being stopped at a roadblock on Rte. 41. Armed with a nine millimeter automatic weapon, he then fled on foot, eventually entering a Lake County Sheriff's Dept. vehicle. A Sheriff's Deputy fired a flashlight at him, and he proceeded to fire shots. Law enforcement officials took cover and Guyton was injured in the right elbow and side. Two police officers suffered what Grinnell described as minor injuries, glass in the eye and cuts on the right hand. Both officers, one from North Chicago and another from Lake County Sheriff's Dept., were treated and released at St. Therese Medical Center.

BUNIONS

Bunions are a progressive deformity, that begins with a mild bump at the base of the big toe. If left untreated the big toe deviates outward and destructive arthritic changes occur. If treated early, surgery may not be needed. If surgery is indicated it is not a disabling procedure. I utilize the Swiss Compression technique which prevents cast wear and the patient may walk that same day. Other advantages to this procedure are that surgery is performed on an outpatient basis and little or no time is missed from work.

Pizza makers nabbed in island home entry

Footprints in the snow led to the arrest of two pizza makers on charges of residential burglary.

Fox Lake police foiled the break-in of a summer home on Crabapple Island in Fox Lake because the place has an alarm system connected with police headquarters.

Arresting officers went to the shore where they found footprints leading to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gallaneau.

More footprints led back to the mainland where they found Raymond Axen, 19, of 28075 Belden Ave., Spring Grove, hiding under a pier.

During questioning, Axen implicated Thomas Morici, 20, of 117 Nippersink Ave., Fox Lake.

Morici and Axen told police they concocted the burglary scheme of the shuttered summer home while working together at a Fox Lake pizza restaurant.

Police reported the two had attempted to haul away loot, mostly food items and recording equipment, on a sled. Morici and Axen are free on $40,000 bond each awaiting trial.

Coast Guard offers sailing course

FOOT NOTES

Dr. Lee M. Tisa, Podiatrist

HEEL PAIN

Almost everyone suffers from pain in the heel at one time or another. Heel spur syndrome is a common cause of heel pain. If you experience a sharp, shooting type pain or a dull aching bruised sensation in your heel when you first put weight on your heel in the morning or after prolonged sitting, you may be suffering from heel spur syndrome.

This condition consists of two components-inflammation of the plantar fascia, the ligament, that runs along the bottom surface of the foot from the ball to the heel and an actual spur which is a bony projection on the bottom of the heel.

Not all heel spurs hurt. It is the inflammation of the structures that causes the pain, and thus, treatment is aimed at reducing the stress on the foot and decreasing the inflammation. Treatment for heel spur syndrome usually involves rest, a series of steroid injections, anti-inflammatory oral medication, physical therapy, and orthotics (custom made arch supports) which relieve stress on the plantar fascia.

Persistent heel spurs are treated, however, surgically by removing the bony spur and releasing the plantar fascia. If you are suffering from this condition, please feel free to contact Dr. Lee Tisa for a NO-COST CONSULTATION* to discuss your condition and treatment options.

United Way recognizes outstanding volunteers

The United Way of Lake County recognized 1990 campaign volunteers and outstanding campaigns at its annual Thank You Celebration at Midlane Country Club.

United Way of Lake County's Immediate Past Chairman, Kenneth W. Farmer of Abbott Laboratories, gave special recognition to Neal Anderson, Chicago Bears' Running Back, for his contributions as publicity chairman. Anderson was also recognized for his leadership gift as a member of the Alexis de Tocqueville Society which includes those people making a contribution of $10,000 or more.

Other volunteers recognized included: the 1990 Campaign Cabinet, group and division chairmen, communications support group, campaign updates group, campaign advisory group, and special assistance providers.

Several companies were also recognized for outstanding corporate contributions or employee campaigns. Abbott Laboratories' combined gift was $1,306,467; Allstate collected 16 percent more than last year, with $271,000; Baxter

Healthcare Corp. collected 110 percent of its goal, raising $608,216; the Benefit Trust Life Companies announced a 118 percent increase with $89,500; last year; Kemper doubled its gift with a corporate match and contributed $172,882;

Vance Publishing also made a corporate matching gift for a total contribution of $20,140; W. W. Grainger increased its corporate gift 100 percent with a contribution of $10,000; and the Combined Federal Campaign achieved an all-time high, collecting $1,204,163.

Bowlers take on lanes for kids' sake bowl-a-thon

The stage is set and the spotlight turned up on Lake County bowlers as they Bowl For Kids' Sake. The 1991 Community Challenge Days are set for Feb. 24 at Hawthorne Lanes in Vernon Hills and March 3 at Bertrands Lanes in Waukegan. The Bowl for Kids' Sake bowl-a-thon is big Brothers/big Sisters of Lake Co. largest fundraiser, generating over 55 percent of the total operating budget.

The renewal of support from corporations like IMC Fertilizer, who last year sent 20 teams and provided a matching gift for the total amount pledged by their teams, and Allstate Insurance promise to make '91 the greatest success ever. With the help of Lake county's dedicated league bowlers and teams from businesses and organizations throughout Lake county, the goal to have the capacity to serve 300 at risk children annually by the end of '92 is within reach. Major sponsors are IMC Fertilizer, US Cable and Hot 102.3.

Bowl For Kids' Sake is a chance to help a worthwhile cause and have fun too. This year's Community Challenge Days will feature music and MC from Hot 102.3 and the wacky antics of Six Flags Great America's Bugs Bunny and Daffy Duck. Domino's pizza will be served. The 1990 Grand Prize winner was Ruth Zabielski from W. R. Grace - Dearborn Division, who won a trip for two to California. Dick Baker who collected $2,881.60 in 1990 won airfare for two to anywhere in the continental

United States for raising the most money. Although the drawings, raffles and entertainment are part of the event, the real winners at Bowl For Kids' Sake are the children who will be matched One-To-One with a Big Brother or Big Sister because of the generosity of all who sponsor bowlers.

RETAIL DRIFT

...More Dangerous Than You Think!

'Retail Drift' is a technical term researchers use when dollars generated in a smaller community are spent in a large community or nearby city.

Your hometown businesses provide the same or equivalent goods and services at the same or better prices. And best of all, you don't have to sit back and watch your community's prosperity drift off to the big city!

'Economic Suicide' is another term these researchers use to describe what happens when big city malls drain smaller communities of valuable retail dollars.

Shopping at home is the only way to stop retail drift. Your dollars spent at home help keep your home town strong and healthy.
